CHAPTER 11
"IMPRESSING" THE PUBLIC

BY SAMUEL B. PETTINGILL

Democratic Representative in Congress for the Third Indiana District 1930-1938.

One of the stealthiest means by which our bureaucracy marches on is by radio propaganda, as in Germany.

February 15, 1939, the National Resources Committee, Frederick Delano, chairman, reported that "Whenever the general public becomes sufficiently impressed with the threatened shortage of petroleum products and the possible rise in prices for motor fuel, then the complex problem of regulating the oil and gas industry is likely to be transferred to the federal government."

A bill was written in the Department of the Interior to give Secretary Ickes control over petroleum production. The way the public was to be "impressed" with the need for the bill becomes clear from the script of various radio broadcasts written by the "chief script writer, radio section" of the Interior Department.

As a sample, in one of the scripts it is plain that the whole intent was to promote fear over the loss of petroleum resources, and in so doing discredit the industry itself.

The direction for the music is "up wildly and fade" while the sound direction reads, "suggest utter confusion and hysteria of population."

Then come the following utterances one after the other:

"Doctor: I'm a doctor. I must get there at once. A woman is dying!"

"Attendant: Sorry, Doc. We haven't a drop of gasoline in the station."

"Sound: Fire Siren."

"Fireman: (Shouting): It's the school house! And we can't move our fire engines!"

"Truckdriver: (Through Filter): Listen, boss, I'm carryin' perishable goods—fruits and vegetables—on this truck. How am I gonna get them there before they spoil?"

"Ticket Agent: The Twentieth Century Limited can't leave this station, Madam. You'll have to go to New York by stage coach."

"Farmer: (Surprised): Well, I'll be doggone. I can't use my tractor. I can't plow my farm!"

"Husband: Ordering wife: Get the children. We'll leave the house and find a restaurant where they cook with a coal stove!"

"Dispatcher: (Droning, via radio): All airplanes are grounded."

"Moss: You men needn't report to work tomorrow. This plant's shutting down. Can't run our machines without oil."

"Sound: Telegraph key. In and under."

Telegrapher: S O S S O S. Steamer America calling. Stopped in mid ocean. One thousand aboard. Send help at once."

"Admiral: (Dictating): To the Navy Department. . . Fleet unable to leave port for Pacific coast as ordered. (Pause) Guns useless without oil. Awaiting further word on. . ."

In another broadcast the godlike Narrator says, "I'm speaking for the department of the Interior. . . It wouldn't let me say anything that wasn't so." (Imagine! "You've a Congress that represents you. . . What have you got a Congress for?"

That these broadcasts are dishonest is obvious. The melodramatic effects were all designed to scare people, ignorant of the known petroleum reserves are now greater than at any time in our history. European countries know this technique but it is a new thing in America.

Not only was this an effort to dominate the determination of public policy, and to set up a bureaucratic legislature in defiance of the constitution which provides that "all legislative powers herein granted shall be vested in a Congress of the United States" (and nowhere else but it is also an apparent violation of criminal law enacted by Congress to protect itself and the people against such pressure. Pepper Fears End Of Impartiality Of Courts Under The Third Term

Former Pennsylvania Senator Says All Judges Might Owe Appointments to Same Source

By IRVING PERLMETER

WHITE SULPHUR SPRINGS, W. Va., Oct. 24 (AP)—George Wharton Pepper, former Republican senator from Pennsylvania, charged today that a third term for President Roosevelt might wipe out all "impartiality in the courts."

He told the Association of National Advertisers here that the president chose jurists for their sympathy with his views, and had already named five of the nine Supreme Court judges, thirty-six of the fifty-six circuit judges and seventy-nine of the 161 district federal judges in the country.

"We might have at the end of another term," he said, "all judges owing their appointment to the same source, and if we have all judges of the same mind we will have something like the Reichstag of Germany."

Congress Breaks All Peace-Time Records for Big Appropriations

WASHINGTON, Oct. 24 (AP)—Congress was advised today that it had broken all peace-time records this session by appropriating or committing of $25,372,819,337, a sum exceeded only once in the United States history—during the World War.

The report, by Chairman Taylor (D-Colo.) of the House Appropriation Committee, showed defense appropriations and commitments totaling $17,632,227,930. The grand total—for defense and

Pilots Report Flying Squarely Through Great Anti-Aircraft Barrage and Dodging Lights

By The Associated Press
LONDON, Oct. 24 (AP)—Heavy British bombers cruised over Berlin for two hours early today, pounding electric plants, railway yards and other targets in their twenty-second foray against the German capital, the air ministry announced tonight.

The pilots said they flew squarely through a great anti-aircraft barrage and dodged grouped searchlights to bomb such objectives as:

The Berliner and Klingenberg electric plants;

Rail facilities at Tempelhof airport, the Lahrte station, terminal for Hamburg and Bremen, the Pultitz-Strasse station in northwest Berlin, the Potsdamer station, and the Charlottenburg power station.

Ice froze on their windshields, the pilots said, but, nevertheless, they were able to set fires "right in the center of the city." Flares guided their bombs.

"The Germans reported that 'a few' British planes managed to drop incendiary bombs and leaflets and a few explosive bombs in Berlin."

Bomb Other Areas
The air ministry news service reported that other waves of bombers spread fire and devastation at the docks at Emden, North Sea Naval Base; bombed factories east of Berlin and Bremen and at the mouth of the Elbe, penetrated to Wismar on the Baltic coast to attack the Dornier plane plants; beat at oil refineries at Hanover and Magdenburg and blasted docks and shipping near the Hook of Holland.

Liberty Shackled By the New Deal, Hoover Declares

Asserts We Are Drifting Toward National Socialism

COLUMBUS, O., Oct. 24 (AP)—Herbert Hoover asserted tonight that the New Deal is creating an economic system which drifts to an American field of national socialism.

The former president declared that his successor, Franklin D. Roosevelt, had obtained extraordinary powers which point to "an American breed of totalitarianism," that in the past seven years peoples' liberties had been shackled and that a third term would violate "an unwritten provision of our constitution."

Would Check Personal Power

Urging the election of Wendell L. Willkie as president, Hoover in his prepared address to a nationwide radio audience viewed the third term tradition as a check upon personal power which he said President Roosevelt had built "to a dangerous point in this Republic."

"In building up these powers the independence of the Supreme Court, Congress and the local government has been degraded," Hoover said. "A political machine has been built which places all free election in jeopardy. An economic system is being created which drifts steadily away from free men and free enterprise down the suicide road of national socialism."

Drifting Toward War

"Under assumption of personal power we are steadily drifting toward war. And one result of the use of these powers has been to stifle the restoration of productive employment and a prosperous agriculture and to involve the peace of the American people."

Election of Republican candidate Willkie, Hoover said, will safeguard representative government under (Continued on Page Nine)

Hugh Johnson Predicts Willkie Will Be Victor

General Says Belief Is Already General in Washington

CLEVELAND, Oct. 24 (AP)—Gen. Hugh S. Johnson predicted tonight that Wendell L. Willkie would be elected president but said the arguments of campaign speakers have little to do with it.

Johnson, newspaper columnist and former close associate of President Roosevelt, charged that if Mr. Roosevelt is reelected "war is certain and will come soon."

He broadcast nationally under the sponsorship of the New York section of the Democratic friends of Willkie, the Republican candidate. He gave the same address also at a banquet of the American society for metals in session here.

See Sweep to Willkie

"The rising tidal wave of popular sentiment that is sweeping Mr. Willkie to victory is composed of three elements," he said, "and none has very much to do with the actual arguments of campaign speakers."

"One is a growing faith in the simple, homespun honesty of Mr. Willkie."

"Another is a growing popular distrust and fear of the cleverness, slickness and guile of Mr. Roosevelt."

"This country yearns for a return to honesty, respect for the pledged word and faith in the promises by which men live."

"I am convinced that if Mr. Roosevelt is reelected war is certain and will come soon. No act of his in the past two years is inconsistent with a purpose of war. Regardless of words no act is wholly consistent with a purpose of peace."

Capital Sees Willkie Victory

Gen. Johnson said this belief is general among observers in Washington. (Continued on Page Nine)

WASHINGTON, Oct. 24.—A compilation of official and unofficial estimates of registrations and poll tax payments in the forty-eight states indicated today that the American electorate may cast its biggest vote in history on November 5—roughly 50,000,000.

The former record was 45,617,117 in 1936, which compared with 39,816,522 in 1932.

Predict Record Vote

Politicians who were forecasting a comparatively light vote several months ago have jumped their estimates after witnessing record registrations in recent weeks and other evidences of increased voter interest.

Unprecedented filings of intentions to vote have been noted in New York and California. In New England, and many interior states, Urban registrations have been particularly heavy, and women appear to be ready to march to the polls in larger numbers than ever before.

An analysis of the state-by-state estimates of eligible voters shows that 60,576,979 persons may qualify to vote in the Roosevelt-Willkie contest—around forty-five percent (Continued on Page Nine)

Republican Hopes To Put an End to Bad Feeling Era In United States

Charges New Deal Has Created Bad Blood Between Groups of Workers and Employers

AKRON, O., Oct. 24 (AP)—Wendell L. Willkie tonight described the New Deal concept of collective bargaining as "reactionary" and said he wanted "to put an end to this era of bad feeling" between labor and industry.

Returning to the city where he practiced law for eleven years, the Republican presidential nominee declared in a prepared address that "the true purpose of collective bargaining is to achieve a coordination of effort by the American people and coordination between them."

"The New Deal has created bad blood between certain groups in industry and certain groups in labor," he said. "With the help of the leaders, both of labor and of industry, I want to put an end to this era of bad feeling."

"I want to unify the spirit of America. With the help of both, we can not fail."

Willkie came here for three evening meetings after asserting in a national broadcast at noon that the New Deal had written a record of broken promises and failures of performance x x x so staggering as to shock the faith of the American people."

Replies to Roosevelt

That address, from his private railroad car on a siding at Harbor Creek, Pa., was in reply to President Roosevelt's Philadelphia speech. Willkie contended that the president had failed to keep Democratic platform pledges, had not brought re-employment, and had helped the rise of dictatorships in Europe.

In his talk prepared for an audience at Goodyear hall tonight, Willkie asserted that there could not be (Continued on Page Two)

Maryland Living Within Income, O'Connor Asserts

Also Effecting a Savings, He Tells Rotary Clubs

HAMPSTEAD, Md., Oct. 24 (AP)—Maryland not only is living "within its income" but is effecting savings from its income, Governor O'Connor asserted tonight in a speech prepared for delivery at a meeting of Maryland-Pennsylvania Rotary clubs.

O'Connor said the state was better prepared, financially speaking, for an emergency than many other states.

"Maryland," he asserted, "has ceased living on borrowed money, has stopped the dubious practice of leaving to future generations the cost of present-day government."

"In the twenty-one months since this present administration came into office, more than $1,000,000 has reverted to the state treasury from departmental appropriations, and the state surplus has risen."

"Yet we have not spared doing the things that Maryland needs to meet modern requirements. We have extended our facilities for the care of our aged and infirmed, our feeble-minded and our tubercular. We have improved educational facilities for normal as well as sub-normal children."

"Our roads have been allotted every penny of the millions collected and earmarked for road purposes, for a net gain in such expenditures of nearly $5,000,000 during 1940 over the preceding year."

The governor said the state administration has been "putting its house in order that everything might be in readiness should the occasion demand."

"If a greater emergency should arise," he continued, "there will be no scurrying around in Maryland trying to find out what we have to do."

New Deal Power Program Menaces Jobs of Miners

Hundreds of Thousands Hit by Hydro-Electric Developments

WASHINGTON, Oct. 24.—Jobs of hundreds of thousands of soft coal and anthracite miners are threatened where they have not already been wiped out by the New Deal's hydro-electric or jobless power program, examination of National Coal Association statistics today revealed.

A total of 5,180,000 kilowatts, or 6,941,000 horsepower in hydro-electric generating capacity has been built or is under construction in forty dams throughout the Nation financed directly or by subsidies out of the Federal Treasury during the past seven years of the New Deal.

Why Miners Are Jobless

This explains in part why anthracite and bituminous miners are either totally unemployed or working only one, two or three shifts per week. "The effect of the displacement of coal for the generation of electricity in steam plants is apparent upon the realization that forty-six million two hundred twenty-three thousand tons of both bituminous and anthracite coal were used to generate electricity for public use in the United States in 1939. It took 1.39 pounds of coal to generate a kilowatt hour of electricity in 1939."

Translated into jobs on the basis of about five tons (489 tons actually) per day output of coal per miner, this forty-six million two hundred twenty-three thousand tons (Continued on Page Two)

Possible Cooperation Between France and Axis Believed Behind Washington Plans

WASHINGTON, Oct. 24 (AP)—The United States, acting in cooperation with other American republics, was said reliably tonight to have plans ready for occupying French territory in the Caribbean area in case such a step is deemed necessary from a hemisphere defense viewpoint.

Signs of possibly closer cooperation between France and the Axis powers were creating intense interest here. The talks of Adolf Hitler with Marshal Henri Petain and vice premier Laval were watched closely for any indication of a new trend in French policy which might affect France's colonial empire or its fleet.

The broad terms of the recent act of Havana allowed wide latitude to the American republics in determining the circumstances under which French or other European possessions in this hemisphere might be seized.

Provides For Emergency Action

It provided for emergency action when any of these areas "are in danger of becoming the subject of bantier of territory or change of sovereignty."

The act adopted by the twenty-one republics at Havana last July, called for creation of a committee with a representative from each country to assume the administration of "the region attacked or threatened." It was to be constituted when two-thirds, or fourteen, of the nations had designated representatives.

The committee came into being today with the appointment of the fourteenth member, by Ecuador.

Any of the American republics could have acted singly or jointly in assuming control before the committee was established.

Colonies in Danger

The French colonies which might be seized in the event the Vichy government's policy became more pliant to Germany and Italy included the islands of Martinique and Guadalupe in the eastern Caribbean approach to the Panama canal and French Guiana, on the South American mainland.

Off the coast of Newfoundland, where the United States has acquired naval and air base sites, are the French islands of Miquelon and St. Pierre.

Martinique has been under especially close American surveillance as a possible trouble spot because of some 100 American-made military planes taken there on the French aircraft carrier Bearn immediately (Continued on Page Nine)

Mussolini's News Commentator Is "Non-Belligerent" as to U. S.

By The Associated Press

ROME, Oct. 24.—Mario Appellus, a commentator in Premier Mussolini's own newspaper, declared that the German-Italian attitude toward the United States was one of "non-belligerency"—the precise term used to define Italy's status before she entered the war last June.

Another journalistic spokesman of similar authority, Virginia Gayda, publicly questioned whether the United States rearmament program was not merely a conventional mask,

Hitler and Petain Hold Conference On French Future

Fuehrer Stages New Manuever in Political Drama

By The Associated Press.
BERLIN, Oct. 24.—Adolf Hitler and Marshal Philippe Petain, chief of state of conquered France, met face-to-face for the first time "somewhere in France" today in the latest maneuver of the Fuehrer's personally directed political drama.

Hitler's talk with the eighty-four year old marshal followed meetings in the past two days with French vice-premier Pierre Laval and Generalissimo Francisco Franco, talks which Nazis here say show how England, "the Encircler," is herself now tightly encircled.

But like the official silence on the conference with Laval Tuesday and yesterday with Franco, not a word was forthcoming on what transpired.

It was assumed in Switzerland that Petain would make a new accord which would assign to France her role in the latest Axis-projected "new order in Europe." In Vichy, government officials saying "the future of our country is at stake," hinted the German-French negotiations had taken a "historic turn."

As in the two previous conferences, German Foreign Minister Joachim von Ribbentrop sat at Hitler's side.

War Not Likely Soon
Informed Germans here said, meanwhile, that it is too much to expect that Spain will actually go to war against Britain, at least for the present.

Direct comment was strictly withheld on the meetings which the Fuehrer has had on successive days with Spanish generalissimo Francisco Franco and vice-premier Pierre Laval of defeated France. About the only thing said either officially or semi-officially was that Hitler and Franco began and ended their talk on the Hispano-French border yesterday.

had alleged "an ignorant bureaucracy was trying to destroy the freedom of the press as a first step in the regimentation of business, and appealed to the advertisers, in their own protection, to help save the liberty of the press both by moral support and the aid of their advertising budgets."

"We cannot," Mr. Patterson said, "have an intellectually and morally free press unless we are economically free. A newspaper, however free from governmental regulations, cannot really and actually be free unless it is profitable."

Gallup Discusses Polls
Dr. George Gallup, conductor of sample polls, disclosed a survey which he said indicated that the "consumer movement" for regulation of standards in business products was not the "prairie fire" it was a year ago, but still moving "merrily" along. He said his polls also could see an increasing proportion of the population believes that the truth standards of advertising have been bettered, but that a majority of the people are still mistaken in their ideas of the cost of advertising and the effect of such costs on the prices of products.

the Frisian Islands and a third "large" one bombed near the Hook of Holland.

One pilot thus described the raid on Berlin:

Bombs Start Fire
"We went straight through the barrage and across the center of Berlin. The searchlights started trying to worry us but they never hit us in their beams. Some shells burst very close. As we were searching for the target we saw parachute flares dropped on the objective and let the bombs go. They started a large fire."

Resorting to an old trick, twin-engine Bristol Beaufort of the coastal command dived out of the Sun to surprise a convoy off the Frisian Islands, sending two supply ships of 4,000 and 2,000 tons to the bottom of the North Sea yesterday, the air ministry announced.

The attacking pilots, declaring they caught the German lookouts off guard, said they dared a heavy anti-aircraft barrage which followed the convoy long enough to see the larger ship go down stern first and the second settling so fast the decks were already awash.

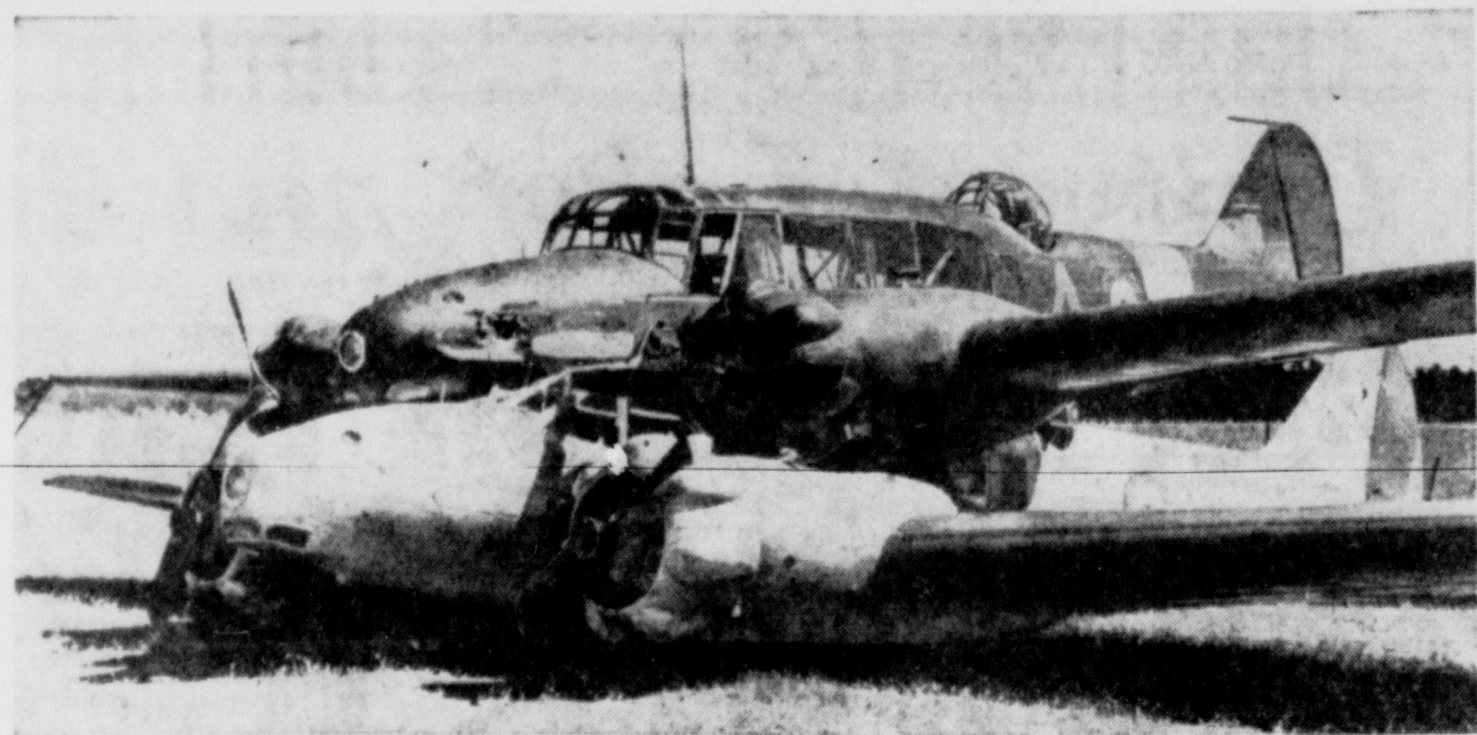

Scattered airmen also were declared blasted.

One British plane was reported lost.

PILOT BRINGS DOWN TWO PLANES AFTER CRASH

Here is the finish of what aerial experts term "the most amazing feat in aviation history." Flying from Wagga to Corowa, in Australia, Flying Officer L. G. Fuller of the Royal Australian Air Force in a big reconnaissance plane collided with another plane of similar type 1,000 feet above Brooksbury. The planes interlocked with Fuller's on top. Pilot and observer of the lower plane bailed out, as did Fuller's observer. But Fuller stayed at the controls and brought both planes down to this perfect landing, with the warplanes only slightly damaged.

a growing national economy "except by understanding and cooperation between labor and management."

"Understanding and cooperation can be achieved between management and labor only through collective bargaining by representatives of labor's own free choice," he said.

"Collective bargaining should be the process employed to make manifest the essential unity between labor and management, and to achieve for each an equitable participation in our democracy."

Only through collective bargaining "in its broadest sense," Willkie asserted, can the nation "keep faith with the half million young Americans who enter the mature life of America each year."

Not Problem Children
The New Deal's method of keeping faith with these young people, he said, "is to treat them as problem children whose only hope is a government handout. American youth shall not be regarded as a surplus to be plowed under—into the muck of Fascist or Communist doctrine."

Willkie called for increased production, saying that "unless we go on making more and more goods, unless we go on making more and more jobs, democracy cannot pull through."

He reiterated that he wanted to keep already-achieved social gains, and said:

"We intend to put the whole power of government behind a drive to abolish the slums of our great cities and to give decent housing to all our people both in the cities and on the farms."

"America should be a land where there is no wrong side of the railroad tracks, and we will make it just that."

In his noon broadcast near Erie, Willkie told a national radio audience that Mr. Roosevelt had failed to keep campaign pledges, had been unable to bring re-employment and had contributed to the rise of dictatorships.

Willkie said he regarded the president's speech last night as "strikingly similar to the defense system—the aerial, naval and military defense system that he is building for these United States today."

Roosevelt's Speech "On Order"
It was either obsolete or on order, he added. "It was obsolete for the reason that it discussed the issues of the 1932 campaign. It was an order because it promised jobs to you and the right to work."

The Republican presidential nominee who talked from a half dozen sheets of notes, said that Mr. Roosevelt "tries to justify his administration on the basis of rising re-employment due to armaments—a false employment as he himself has told us."

A few dozen people stood outside Willkie car as the candidate asserted that he too would build armaments if he were elected.

But at the same time, he added, "I want to stimulate our domestic economy so that when the defense program has been completed there will not be a deflation and unemployment of hundreds of thousands of men and financial chaos."

"If we do not stimulate our domestic economy it is inevitable that the United States at the completion of its defense program will have one of the greatest panics in its history."

Willkie asserted that industrial production, wages, dividends, investment, construction contracts and farm income had been lower during seven years of the New Deal than in the seven preceding years.

Record on Relief Rolls
"I want the third term candidate to stand on that record," he continued. "However he may twist and turn and seek to justify his record by partial facts and incomplete comparison, the history of his failure is written in the relief rolls of this country."

"No amount of words can cover up the fact that today more than 9,000,000 men are out of work."

Saying that Mr. Roosevelt now declare he is determined to make work for all during the next four years, the Republican nominee asked: "Why hasn't he done it in the past eight years, when he has been in complete control of government when he has had a majority of both houses of Congress?"

Willkie said the president had failed to keep pledges regarding government economy, reduced taxes and the restoration of international

Judge Proskauer Says Democrats Cannot Longer Support New Deal

BALTIMORE, Oct. 24. (AP)—Former Judge Joseph M. Proskauer of the New York State Supreme court, lifelong Democrat and close associate of Al Smith, asserted tonight "Americans and Democrats cannot be New Dealers."

The jurist told a Republican rally the "supreme issue" of the current campaign was "preservation of the American form of government," adding:

trade. Asserting that the chief executive killed the London economic conference of 1933, the candidate continued:

"In my judgment by that act he contributed more to the fall of the Democracies and the rise of dictatorships than did any single act of any government in the world."

He then quoted Mr. Roosevelt as saying last night that the nation would not participate in foreign wars or send armed forces outside the Americas "except in cases of attack." Willkie repeated a statement he had made in previous speeches:

"I hope I hope sincerely that the pledge based upon the 1940 platform of the Democratic party, is remembered by him (Mr. Roosevelt) longer than he remembers the Democratic platform of 1932. If he does not remember it longer, then shortly our boys will be on the transports sailing for some foreign shore."

Traveling today through western Pennsylvania to Akron for an evening speech, Willkie was joined on his train by Senator Robert A. Taft (R-Ohio), an unsuccessful contender for the Republican presidential nomination, and Senator James J. Davis (R-Pa.).

Willkie's train made brief unscheduled stops at Linesville and Greenville, Pa., so that crowds could see the candidate. It reached Sharon, Pa., forty-five minutes late.

Willkie told a train-side audience he hoped it would be "unswayed by any extraneous stories that are circulated about the president or me." He said he had no desire to explore the president's daily life or to learn whom he had represented as a lawyer.

Instead, he said, he was interested in having the people determine which way liberty would be best preserved—under a continuation of the New Deal or under Willkie's program.

New Deal Power

tons means 9,224,600 man-days work for coal miners. If the electricity produced in 1938 by water power, for instance, had been produced by coal, 31,608,000 additional tons would have been consumed.

More Unemployment Looms
The New Deal has built or is building twenty-four electric power dams which, when finished, will cost one billion five hundred million dollars. They include not only government-owned but state and municipally owned projects.

Promotion of these jobless power type of electric generating plants during the seven years of the New Deal represents a fifty-four per cent increase in the hydro-electric or water power electricity generation capacity of the Nation.

It exceeds by 853,000 kilowatts, or 1,143,020 horsepower, the total net increase in private generating capacity of the Nation for the seven-year period from January 1, 1933 to January 1, 1940.

Hits Wide Area
It is not surprising therefore, that mines are not scheduled to work in the anthracite region of Pennsylvania or the soft coal mining areas of thirty-eight states.

With the New Deal actively promoting these jobless power projects employing falling water rather than man-produced coal to make electricity, it is not surprising that the percentage of electricity generated for public use in this country by coal-burning plants has declined from 59.7 per cent in 1925 to 32.5 per cent in 1939.

Simply stated this is an example of how the New Deal undermines the coal miner not to mention its effect upon railroad workers, coal mine suppliers, truck drivers, retail coal dealers, coal salesmen and office workers.

Coal miners pay taxes and they should be concerned over the use of public tax money to their own disadvantage by government sponsorship of such projects.

The reduction of annual working time of bituminous miners, reflecting the loss of coal markets, is shown in figures compiled by the National Coal Association showing only 162 days worked in 1938 as against 193 days worked in 1933. Anthracite miners worked 225 days in 1939 and only 189 days in 1937—1938 figures not available.

More TVA's Planned
Even so, the New Deal program is only beginning. New Dealers plan to duplicate the Tennessee Valley hydro-electric—more abundant life project—in seven other "little sisters" of the TVA. This would cover the Columbia Valley, Southwestern Missouri Valley, Arkansas Valley, Great Lakes-Ohio Valley, Tennessee Valley and the Atlantic Seaboard.

As seen by John D. Battle, Executive Secretary, National Coal Association, Washington, D. C., extension of this scheme "to every nook and corner of the continental United States" impels the uncontrovertible conclusion that "any such far-flung program and one of such almost incredible magnitude, is calculated in the long run to spell the doom of our industry."

According to Mr. Battle, "The coal industry sees its own prospective annihilation in the hydro-electric power aspects of the program which is being advanced in the guise of conservation of natural resources. And secondarily, because we believe that the whole set-up provided for in the bill before the Committee, however plausible the language, however sincere its advocates, however persuasive their presentation of their declared objectives, is inimical to the national welfare—a violation of our whole concept of democracy—contrary to every precept of sound economics, and destined to entail colossal expenditures out of a Federal Treasury already strained to the breaking point."

60 Pound Pumpkin On "Poor Ground"
MORGANTHA, MD., Oct. 24. (AP)—Farmer B. B. Love, Sr. didn't expect much of a pumpkin crop this fall because he thought the ground in his field was poor. But he got surprised.

Three pumpkins taken from the field are near record-breakers for southern Maryland. One weighed fifty-six pounds, another fifty-seven and a third tipped the scales at sixty pounds. And the field yielded three wagon loads of pumpkins.

One of the things that is wrong with America is that everybody who has done anything at all in his own field is expected to be an authority on every subject under the sun.

Jackson Attacks Fiscal Policies Of the New Deal

But Mayor of Baltimore Says He Will Remain a Democrat

BALTIMORE, Oct. 24. (AP)—Mayor Howard W. Jackson of Baltimore almost upset the Maryland political applecart today with a "non-political" speech vigorously attacking fiscal policies of the national administration.

The mayor, long powerful in the state's democratic ranks and chief executive of the nation's seventh largest city for thirteen years, then refused to amplify his speech other than to say: "I shall remain a Democrat."

Asked later if the speech could be interpreted as meaning he would oppose President Roosevelt's reelection, the mayor replied:

"I shall remain a Democrat."

Asked if he would support Wendell L. Willkie, the Republican presidential nominee, the mayor replied:

"I shall remain a Democrat."

Questioned as to his definition of "Democrat," Jackson commented that "nowadays, you can put your own construction on that word."

As an afterthought, he said: "As for myself I shall remain a Democrat."

In several recent speeches, the mayor had been critical of national administration policies. Despite close and fairly continual questioning, Jackson has never publicly committed himself either to the president or Willkie.

Recently, a number of city hall workers have appeared wearing Willkie buttons. City hall workers further have steadfastly declined to contribute any appreciable sums to the Democratic fund.

In today's address, before a state convention of insurance agents, Jackson—reiterating that what he was was "non-political"—asserted "if a government takes in $1 and spends

$2, it cannot be a good government."

Sees Trend to Bankruptcy

He said it was his belief a "trend toward bankruptcy" was endangering the nation and added "we're tending toward Socialism in this country... yet we sit by and watch a government lead us into it."

The political power wielded by the mayor is such that any indication he was shying away from national administration could conceivably have a marked effect on the Roosevelt-Willkie campaign in this normally Democratic state.

Although defeated in the 1938 gubernatorial election by Governor O'Connor, Jackson came back to overthrow the state administration's majority candidate a few months later, and scored over the O'Connor forces again the Democratic senatorial primary.

So close was O'Connor's 1938 victory over the mayor that the convention votes of a single county decided the issue.

Sec. Perkins Discounts Possible Attack on New Deal by Lewis

WASHINGTON, Oct. 24. (AP)—Secretary of Labor Perkins expressed the opinion today that if CIO leader John L. Lewis Friday night radio speech turned out to be an attack on the New Deal, it would not make much difference in the votes of the working people.

At a press conference, during which she reported a 600,000 increase in employment from August to September, the secretary answered inquiries about the Lewis speech by saying:

"The labor groups are pretty largely for President Roosevelt."

In her report on the monthly survey of employment and payrolls, Miss Perkins said the employment gain recorded in the summer and early autumn was "one of the largest ever recorded."

The 600,000 gain from August to September, she declared, followed a gain of 400,000 from July to August. In her opinion, she added the "back of unemployment is very nearly broken."

For a subtle onion flavor in mild soups, escalloped dishes, or salads, add a little grated onion instead of blending minced onion into the rest of the ingredients.

THE DAILY STORY

TRUE TO THE GUN

A Young Man Discovers That When You Save a Girl's Life You've Really Started Something

By MARY DRAKE

Standing in front of the police station, Sgt. O'Hara looked gay. A brass-trimmed automobile was approaching, and he knew its driver was the silken-clad goddess, Janet Blair, the girl he was soon to marry.

But his eyes clouded. Coming down the street, toward him, was Lola, flaxen-haired little waif of 18 who, but for Sgt. O'Hara, would have wound up a brief career in delinquency behind prison bars three years ago.

Consistently, Lola had needed him. Before and after the day he had placed her in a home as nursemaid, away from the despoiling influence of a flashy beautiful older sister.

Almost weekly she came to him with trivial problems. Also to report the progress of her conversion into the realm of respectability.

While he studied her now, he noted a new grace Lola, he decided, was becoming a lady.

"By golly," he thought, but then a cream-colored custom-built car drove up, and from it a shrill voice called out, "hurry, darling."

Sgt. O'Hara turned from the approaching Lola. He sensed that her eyes would hold more than disappointment. Perhaps condemnation. Funny, but he didn't want that, from Lola.

From Janet, well, it was different. Even now, when she said, "You might have had the decency to change into civilian clothes," he just looked proudly down at his uniform, settled himself into the seat, and chuckled.

He looked back, before they rounded the corner, and on the street he saw Lola standing, idly watching a cruising automobile. Then they were driving fast on the country road.

"Take it easy, baby."

"I can't, Dad's on the loose. He wouldn't like this."

He straightened. Was she being patronizing? No O'Hara could stand for that.

"I'm hungry, Janet. Let's stop soon."

"In your uniform? Don't be a fool!"

"Say, woman, look here. We're

The Wild-eyed Little Gamin Was Lola.

going to be married, aren't we?"

He drew his brows together.

Inside, under harsh lights, he said to himself, "She's a spoiled child. But she loves me."

Aloud, "Janet, whatever brought us together like this?"

"I'm glad," she breathed, "that dad's business took him to this crazy town. Tom, you're going to adore the ranch."

He grinned. The ranch, she had explained before, was the mammoth hunting preserve of the Blair family.

Just a hundred miles away, Lord, wouldn't it be great, rolling up to the police station and telling the boys about the magnificent shooting on his day off? And wouldn't they envy him all that money?

Some got it the easy way. He had never gone in for graft. But something like this, well...

"Sgt. O'Hara!"

The wild-eyed little gamin with hair tousled and body trembling was Lola. The Lola he had known three years ago, when he had started molding her into what she termed a "good girl."

"Sgt. O'Hara please come with me!"

"Excuse me," he said quietly to Janet.

Outside, the girl gasped. "I'm afraid!" She pointed to a huge, drunken looking man in an expensive dark coupe.

O'Hara walked toward the automobile, and through the open window he heard the man say, "Why, you dirty little..."

Wham! O'Hara's hand was across the man's mouth.

"She told me," the drunken one blubbered, "that she was going in to see a girl friend who worked here. Then she comes out with— with you!" he spat. "All right, I'll show you."

He opened the door, lunged forward, and fell on his face.

"Father!" From the doorway of the tavern came Janet's shrill cry. In a moment she was kneeling on the ground, rubbing her father's forehead.

"He—he did it," faltered Walter

Blair, pointing at O'Hara.

"He didn't mean to father," she soothed him. "He's Tom O'Hara, the man I'm going to marry."

Tom was startled at her bravery. Janet was sweet. He fumbled for her hand.

But old Blair was sitting upright, laughing foolishly. "You're joking. You—you wouldn't marry a— a policeman!"

"It's all right, father. He's not going to be working after tonight. Not at his present job. We'll find him something else."

Sgt. O'Hara squared his shoulders. Then he envisioned the easy life stretch ahead. Why not? He'd still have a chance to use a gun, even if he did get out of the force. He always did like hunting. Plenty of game to shoot on the Blair preserve. Good idea.

He tossed Lola an impatient glance. He'd give her a talking to, like she never had before, for taking rides with strange men. Drunken ones at that.

"When I saw you get into her car," she looked straight at him. "I—I couldn't stand it. I didn't seem like the real you. I thought I should rescue you. That's why I took a ride with the first man that came along."

"You took that chance? Why?" Spiritually "Because you need mothering, that's why!"

He drew her inside the tavern and studied her excited little face, and nothing gives them quite such an uplift as to have a real grown-up man touch his hat to them or show them other little courtesies.

Flood Control Survey Committee Discusses Various Subjects

The sub-committee of the Potomac River Flood Control Survey met yesterday afternoon in the office of Ralph R. McHenry, county farm agent.

A roundtable discussion was held on woodland management, long term federal loans for use in woodlands, formation of a soil conservation district, tax adjustments so as to tax only harvested wood crops and putting a light tax on woodland not being cut.

Proposed channel improvements in the county were also discussed.

No definite action was taken as the discussion was merely of an exploratory nature.

Those who attended were: A. J. Pich, W. H. Johnson and Albert O'Neal of the Everts Creek section; William Loar, N. S. Yoder and Ernest Reid of the Potomac River section; W. L. Frazee and W. T. McLaughlin, of the Town Creek area.

Ralph R. McHenry and county farm agent and H. C. Buckingham, district forester, also attended.

"Heidi" Will Be Presented Here Twice on Monday

"Heidi" will be presented at Fort Hill high school auditorium at 9:30 a. m. and 1:30 p. m., Monday by the New York Children's Theater.

Tuesday the company will appear at Bruce high in Westernport and at Beall high in Frostburg, Tuesday.

Saturday the Children's Theater will present a program at the National Theater in Washington, D. C., coming to Cumberland Sunday.

The local performance is being sponsored by the Allegany County Council of Parent-Teacher Associations.

Darr Files Suit Against Upper Potomac River Commission

Thomas A. Darr, of this city, has filed suit in circuit court through his attorney, Julius E. Schindler, against the Upper Potomac River Commission for the sum of $2,000.

The bill states he worked as a machine shop foreman and also as a garage foreman and the money is due for services rendered.

Fire Damages Home Of R. J. Collins

South End firemen were called yesterday at 2:30 p. m. to the home of R. J. Collins, 131 Offutt street, when fire of unknown origin broke out in the living room and caused approximately $150 damage.

Firemen reported the blaze originated on a settee. The fire was confined to the living room where smoke did the most harm.

At 4:40 a. m., Central firemen went to the Amoco service station on South Mechanic street, adjacent to the Western Maryland freight station. Fire in a stove caused smoke to seep up through the eaves of the roof. No damage was done.

Students and Adults Gaze at Jupiter

About fifty persons, including high school students and adults, climbed to the rooftop of Allegany high school last night to take a squint at Saturn and Jupiter through the telescope donated to the school by Harry Footer.

Following a short talk on astronomy by Principal R. R. Webster, the spectators took turns peering through the powerful telescope into space.

Jupiter, the largest of the planets, was clearly visible and spectators saw a number of cloud banks, three of its eleven satellites, Saturn, most picturesque of all the planets, was seen with its ring.

Students and adults present expressed great interest and Principal Webster is planning to hold another astronomy session soon.

Chief of Police Arrests Driver

It seems that Chief of Police Oscar A. Eyerman is a firm believer in the adage "practice what you preach."

Yesterday morning, he arrested B. J. Nelson, of RFD 3, Valley road, on a charge of careless driving.

Nelson was summoned to appear today in police court for a hearing.

Billmeyer Files Suit for Divorce

Frederick B. Billmeyer entered suit in circuit court, yesterday for a divorce from Josephine C. Billmeyer.

The couple was married June 22, 1937 and separated September 15, 1940. Custody of a child born to the couple was asked by the plaintiff in the bill of complaint.

The plaintiff is represented by Edward J. Ryan, attorney.

Della Howser Sues for Divorce

A suit for divorce was docketed in circuit court, yesterday, by Della Howser against Charles Howser, a resident of West Virginia.

The right to resume her maiden name, Piper, was asked by the plaintiff. The couple was married in 1912 and lived together until October 18, 1938. Edward J. Ryan is her attorney.

Seven Are Initiated Into Knights of Columbus At Ceremonies Last Night

Cumberland Council No. 586, Knights of Columbus, initiated a B class of seven candidates into the first degree, last night, in the council chambers of the home on North Mechanic street. Two hundred members attended.

Those who were inducted are: Joseph B. Decker, Cesare Ferretti, Edward A. Meconi, James H. Owens, William A. Sell, Robert P. Wilkins and DeSales M. McDade.

The installing officers were: Harry I. Stegmayer, grand knight; W. A. Ryland, deputy grand knight; Peter J. Carpentieri, chancellor; Thomas F. Connell, warden; and George McDermott, financial secretary.

Following the conferring of the degree a shrimp feast was held in the lounge room.

Plans were also announced concerning the corporate Communion of Sunday, November 3, at the 7:10 Mass at St. Patrick's church. The Communion is in honor of the deceased members of the council and for peace in the world.

Mussolini's News

constellations around the starry republic, pictured that country as: "Preparing to lend another hand to the progressive destruction of the British empire by constituting herself helms to the positions and riches which formerly formed a part of British power."

These evidences of editorial preoccupation with the United States were accompanied by sweeping declarations in the press concerning Adolf Hitler's meeting with Generalissimo Francisco Franco of Spain, Il Popolo Di Roma announcing: "deeds will spring forth from the conversation."

These "deeds" in the view of foreign observers, might be taken to mean Spain's probable early entrance into the war on the Axis side for a showdown attack upon the British fortress of Gibraltar, and thus upon the life of the empire itself.

Appellus said these were Spain's great objectives: "Gibraltar, Africa and Spanishism" — the latter a term coined by Appellus himself.

Total Vote of the nation's total population of 131,409,881 as estimated by the census bureau.

Allowing for fifteen to twenty percent of the qualified who normally do not vote, it is estimated that the popular vote next month may be around 49,719,200, or about thirty-seven for every 100 of population.

The number of "potential" voters this year is estimated at 80,526,000 by the census bureau. This includes all citizens over 21 but excludes aliens, inmates of penal and mental institutions, and voteless residents of the District of Columbia.

The estimate of "eligible" voters is considerably lower because many persons make no effort to qualify.

The 1940 vote forecast shows the New England states (Maine, New Hampshire, Vermont, Massachusetts, Rhode Island, and Connecticut) may increase their vote by about 390,000 over 1936.

Increases indicated for other regions in round numbers:

Middle Atlantic states (New York, New Jersey, Pennsylvania) 1,271,000

East North central states (Ohio, Indiana, Illinois, Michigan, Wisconsin) 827,000

West North central states (Minnesota, Iowa, Missouri, North and South Dakota, Nebraska, Kansas) 379,000

South Atlantic states (Delaware, Maryland, Virginia, West Virginia)

North and South Carolina, Georgia, Florida) 201,000.

East south central states (Kentucky, Tennessee, Alabama, Mississippi) 23,000.

West south central states (Arkansas, Louisiana, Oklahoma, Texas) 67,000.

Mountain states (Montana, Idaho, Wyoming, Colorado, New Mexico, Arizona, Utah, Nevada) 89,000.

Pacific states (Washington, Oregon, California) 829,000.

While the estimated total popular vote is figured at around 50,000,000, many factors could change the result. At best, the total is only a rough forecast. The actual vote might be influenced by the weather, prominent issues, and party get-out-the-vote efforts.

The 1920 vote, after the Harding-Cox campaign, brought out 26,705,346 voters, with women casting ballots for the first time. This was a 44 percent increase over 1916. The increase in 1924 over 1920 was 8.8 percent. This jumped to 27.1 percent in the Hoover-Smith election of 1928, then dropped to 7.9 percent in 1932 and rose again to 14.6 percent in 1936.

Should the vote increase this year equal that of 1936 over 1932—5,830,595—the total would be around 51,000,000. If it equals the average increase for the last four elections, the total vote will approximate 50,380,000.

Smoke Screen

(United States Code, Title 18, Section 201 enacted July 11, 1919).

This act of Congress provides that "no part of the money appropriated by any act shall, in the absence of express authorization by Congress, be used, directly or indirectly, to pay for personal service, advertisement, telegram, telephone, letter, printed or written matter, or other device, intended or designed to influence in any manner a member of Congress, to favor or oppose, by vote or otherwise, any legislation, or appropriation with time and jail penalties for violation."

This act has been cited repeatedly in recent years on the floor of Congress, and as there has been no "express authorization" to my knowledge by which bureaucrats in the government departments may engage in radio broadcasts to propagandize Congress, it seems clear that if the department of Justice would act, we might reduce the federal payrolls by sending certain officials and their underlings to jail. But I do not indulge in that as a hope. It is merely a thought.

The subtle control of radio broadcasters is known to all familiar with federal operations.

Licenses are granted for only a few months at a time they may be suspended or revoked or renewals may be refused in such a way that the broadcaster will be ruined before he can have a day in court.

A bill has been recently introduced in Congress to protect the independence of radio from bureaucratic absolutism. It will require the indignant support of the people to be enacted—Copyright, 1940, King Features Syndicate, Inc.

cash to which it added $9,027,441.362 in contract authorizations, for a grand total of $36,119,536,082.

Taylor asserted that in enacting the largest appropriations and contract authorizations during peacetime Congress had "recognized the urgent necessity of the rearmament of the United States and the strengthening of our defenses for hemispheric protection."

"No voice has been raised against the provision of the sums that have been made available," he said.

Taylor's report showed that Congress had exceeded President Roosevelt's budget estimates by a net of $641,519,461. However, it said a part of this sum was due to defense appropriations on which the executive furnished information informally.

The total sums provided for defense (appropriations plus contract authorizations) were listed as: army, $8,792,145,145; navy, $3,537,138,137; civil activities contributing to defense or enforcement of neutrality, $766,944,648.

which only limited powers rest in any one man's hand."

Hoover spoke in Columbus while Willkie visited industrial centers in Warren and Akron in his drive to capture Ohio's 26 electoral votes in the Nov. 5 election.

Peacetime expansion of presidential powers in the past seven years has exceeded any granted in the nation's previous 160 years, said Hoover, who drew a parallel between New Deal activities and Europe's "one party dictatorships."

"A few days ago Mr. Roosevelt sought to dismiss all of this by the statement that 'no dictator ever dared to run the gauntlet of a really free election,' Hoover added. 'That is not the answer. The answer is that there can be no free election with such a political machine as the New Deal. Does any man believe that even today ten million householders are not tied to this party by other forces than pure reason?"

"Do you want to give another four years to building up a single undefeatable party? After four years more, then what? Does not the surrender of a third term tradition lead to a political machine which can elect to a fourth term or even a life term?"

Hoover charged that it was an "intellectual dishonesty" for the New Deal to contend that it represents liberalism.

"Mr. Roosevelt scarcely ever makes an address that he does not refer to 'we liberals,' said Hoover. 'He summons all liberals to join him. Earl Browder and Harry Bridges were joiners for a long time. But you cannot be or make a liberal by just shouting 'liberal' and denouncing everybody else as 'reactionary.'"

"One of the great triumphs of true liberalism was the independence of the judiciary. Some appointments to the Supreme Court are about as liberal as Charles the First and hanging Judge Jefferys."

"Another one of the triumphs of true liberalism was the independence of the legislative arm. This yes-yes manipulation of congress has a counterpart in that great liberal George the Third."

Hoover asserted "nobody will deny that the majority of Congress have been reduced to a rubber stamp and added:

"You may think the president's power dive on the Supreme Court failed. It did not. We have seen the court weakened steadily with compliant appointments. Who will say that the court now is as great a check upon the personal power of the president as it has always been in the past?"

ington but is not yet general in the country. The country is uneasy enough, however, to require a denial from the president.

"So, Mr. Roosevelt again, in his best movie manner, registers gravity, earnestness and sincerity in indignant denial," Johnson said, referring to the president's speech in Philadelphia Wednesday night in which he denied what he said were campaign insinuations that he had entered into secret understandings with foreign nations.

"Once more," Johnson continued, "words could not be invented to make that denial more emphatic. Can he get away with it again?"

Records of Oregon Cave Men Added to Knowledge of Past

Removing a fossilized fish from a high and dry spot in southern Oregon.

By HOWARD W. BLAKESLEE
Associated Press Science Editor

ENGLENE, Ore.—Cave men were living in southern Oregon at the ancient time when Carter lake was formed there by the blowing-off of the top of Mt. Mazama.

Geologists date this upheaval, which formed a lake four miles long, three miles wide and 1,000 feet deep at an elevation of 7,000 feet, at 4,000 to 10,000 years ago. The records of cave men and of the pumice which made Pompeii of their homes, uncovered mainly by University of Oregon men, are described by Dr. L. S. Cressman, head of the university's department of anthropology.

These Oregon caves fill in a new area in a mosaic which is beginning to blanket the earth with evidence that mankind was already spread over the world when Egypt erected the pyramids.

In Three Arid Valleys
The Oregon traces of men are mainly in three arid valleys at about 4,000 to 5,000 feet elevation.

Two valleys were apparently filled with huge glacial lakes 30 to 50 miles across and 100 to 175 feet deep. The water marks are still visible. The cave men's habitations are near the edges of these high water marks.

In one of these valleys, Summer lake, there are three caves, under whose soil was found buried pumice from the Crater lake eruption. The pumice in one of the Summer lake caves separated two layers of debris left by human occupancy. The lower level under the pumice indicated that man had lived there long before the eruption.

Dr. Cressman said the earth deposit might have required more than 2,000 years, but could have taken much less time.

In one of the caves were scores of sagebrush sandals, scorched by the hot pumice.

To date one human, slightly fossilized, has been uncovered. The best guess is that ancient lake waters scattered the bones of this man just inside the entrance to a cave.

Callow valley is the second of the cave sites. One of these Callow caves apparently tells a story of man's progress, and perhaps superstitions. The cave has three levels of human occupancy. In the earliest one, the inhabitants ate water fowl and almost no mammals. In the second stage, mountain sheep were added as a main article of food. Land birds also appeared and there were fewer bones of water fowl.

Bison Bones Appear

In the top level bison bones first appeared. The hunt of superstition is complete lack of evidence that deer or antelope were eaten by these people. That the animals were present is shown by a knife handle made from one of these animals' horns.

The caves have yielded great numbers of atlatl dart points and three atlatl or throwing sticks. Archaeologists class the atlatl as a predecessor of the bow and arrow. Atlatls have been found where prehistoric man lived in all continents except Africa.

Japan Abrogates Treaty on Killing Of Seals in Pacific

WASHINGTON, Oct. 24 (AP)—Japan's treaty relations with the United States were altered further when Tokyo gave notice of abrogation of a 1911 four-power convention of fur seals in certain areas of the Pacific.

Officials long have known of Japan's dissatisfaction with the agreement but the sudden notice of termination without prior discussion was regarded as another sign of tension between the two countries.

Like the commercial treaty of the same year which the United States abrogated after Japan's attack on China, the fur sealing convention requires one year's notice for termination.

The Tokyo announcement said proposals for revisions would be submitted.

Secretary Hull said the notice had not yet been received here and that there had been no official advance intimation that Japan contemplated such action.

In 1926, however, Japan raised the question of revision but after lengthy discussions, no action was taken.

Other parties to the agreement were Great Britain and Russia. It bound them to prevent the killing, capturing or pursuit of the seals in the waters of the North Pacific.

Secretary Hull declined to comment on other phases of Far Eastern affairs, including Tokyo press assertions that unless the Netherlands East Indies complied with Japanese requests for oil supplies, "we must resort to armed force and make them comply."

Should Face Stage

Teacher's Pat

At Five, He Knows Books By Heart

AP Feature Service

Oklahoma City—"I don't like it because I'm not learning anything," said 5-year-old Pat Peiree to his mother after his first day in school.

Pat won a genuflecting when he passed an intelligence test with a grade of 150 at the age of two. On his own, he's been learning things ever since. His knowledge amazes adults.

The war puzzles Pat because he can't understand "why we have to have wars." He studies war maps keenly. He also enjoys opera music and has made astronomy his hobby. There are few questions a layman can ask him about the universe that he can't answer. Disdaining juvenile toys, he prefers to play with children 10 and 12 years old.

His parents, Mr. and Mrs. Kelly Peiree, frequently don't know where Pat acquires knowledge and Pat frequently won't tell. Recently he began doing simple addition and subtraction. When his parents asked him how he learned it he only smiled.

TWO GREAT SYMBOLS

THE LIBERTY BELL

On July 4th, 1776, the bell hanging in the tower of the old State House in Philadelphia pealed out to the world the news that the United States was a free and independent nation.

Known since that day as the "Liberty Bell," it still hangs in the Philadelphia State House, though no longer in the bell tower, a symbol of the freedom and liberty that every true American cherishes as his sacred heritage.

In these troubled times it takes on added meaning and significance.

THE I. E. S. TAG

In a very different way, the I. E. S. Tag has become a symbol of freedom—freedom from eyestrain and harsh glaring, unhealthy lighting conditions.

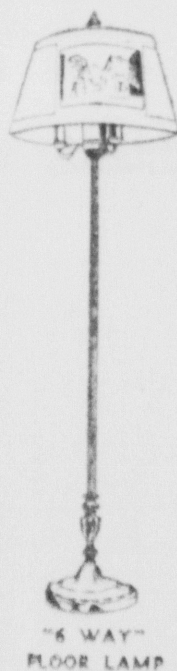

The I. E. S. Tag on any lamp is your guarantee that the lamp has been designed and built in accordance with good lighting principles and specifications as established by the Illuminating Engineering Society—a non-commercial, non-profit organization established for the advancement of lighting research and lamp construction.

Jackson Expects Hunting License Rush Next Week

Clerk Says only 2,308 Permits Have Been Issued Here to Date

With the upland game season in Allegany county scheduled to open a week from today, and only 2,308 hunting licenses issued to date, a rush for tags is anticipated next week by athletes in the office of Robert Jackson, clerk of the court.

It was announced yesterday that 1,493 resident, $13 state-wide and two non-resident licenses had been issued. To equal last year's record of 5,894 licenses, it would mean that 4,401 tags must be sold before the 1940 season passes into history. For the month of October 1939 court house records show that 3,144 licenses were sold.

Receipts for hunting licenses to date total $6,168, with resident licenses bringing $125 each, state-wide $525 and non-resident $15.50. Last year's total of 6,084 licenses and here represented an increase of 500 over the previous year.

Joseph A. Minke, regional game warden, expects the 1940 season to be the best since the severe winter of 1936. A big increase has been noted in wild turkeys as a result of planting of 200 birds in the county in the spring and summer months.

The upland season in Allegany and Garrett counties will open Friday, November 1. The deer season of five days will start Monday, December 2.

James Keller Will Go on Trial Today

James Roy Keller, United States army, Fort Slocum, N. Y., indicted for rape, will go on trial today in circuit court before Chief Judge D. Lindley Sloan and Associate Judge William A. Huster.

Local Students Will Sing with All-State Chorus Saturday

The All-Maryland High School Chorus which includes eighteen high school students from Allegany county will broadcast from Baltimore tomorrow.

Singing for the annual meeting of the Maryland State Teachers Association, the program will be broadcast over the Mutual Network from Station WOR, Newark, N. J., from 10:30 a. m. to 11:15 a. m. The concert will be broadcast by transcription from Station WBAL, Baltimore, Dial 1960 from 11:15 a. m. until noon.

Alvin E. Yaste Is Named Clerk Of Board No. 3

Alvin E. Yaste of Cumberland, an ex-serviceman, yesterday was appointed clerk of Allegany County Draft Board No. 3 with headquarters at the Union street school.

Members of Board No. 3 are Franklin Ambrey, chairman, Marshall Wolford and William Morgan.

Plans for Local Airport Finished

Master Plan and Runway Profile Is Mailed to Washington, D. C.

The city engineering staff yesterday completed the master plan and runway profile for Cumberland's proposed airport at Wiley Ford, Ralph Rizer, city engineer, announced.

The completed plan was mailed to Albert H. Wessell, of the Civil Aeronautics Authority, and Representative William D. Byron.

The plan shows the location of the four runways which are 3,800, 3,500, 3,125 and 2,572 feet in length. The first can be extended to 6,000 feet and the last one to 2,822 feet.

None of the grades is more than one and one-half percent, according to Rizer. The landing strips, which are the over all parts of the runways, will be 500 feet wide, and the runways will be 150 feet wide with a 150 feet wide with a hard surface.

The location of the proposed hangars and the administration building are shown. While the plan is on white paper, various features of the layout are pictured in color. The plan is merely preliminary and no estimates are made of cost or the amount of grading necessary. The chief purpose will be to determine if the Wiley Ford location is a good one.

Plan Penny Supper

A penny supper will be held tonight from 5 to 7 p. m. at the Calvary Methodist church, Ridgeley, W. Va. It was announced yesterday.

Clifford's

charge, said, "I'm not a killer. Clifford was a better man than Bailey. I recognized that."

Later in his argument, Harris savagely slashed at Hoffman, calling him "the most sinister character in this whole case."

Referring to Clifford, Harris said "there is no self defense here in declaring that while he was advised to obtain a peace warrant he paid $5 for a gun instead."

He didn't want peace, he wanted blood," the state's attorney shouted.

Conflicts Noted
The state's attorney read excerpts from sworn statements from both Clifford and Hoffman following the shooting. The statements contradicted testimony offered by the witnesses at the trial. Neither said anything about Bailey reaching for his hip in their original statements, Harris said.

John Turano, defense witness, yesterday told how Bailey came to the hotel where Bailey was staying and threatened to kill him. When Harris reminded him of an earlier statement in which no mention of any such threat was made, Turano said the statement he was making from the witness box was the truth.

Arthur Billmeyer, most suave of all the witnesses in the case, told how his friend, Johnny, had met Bailey, how he had gone to Ridgeley in an attempt to effect a reconciliation between Clifford and his wife without success. On cross examination, he admitted Clifford came to his office and asked where he could get a revolver. He said he didn't know, Billmeyer said.

Kathleen Hite, 17, who went to the park the night of the shooting with Hoffman, said she and her boy friend were about as far as "from where I am (the witness box) to that bannister," a distance of some twenty feet. She said she heard loud talking but didn't understand anything that was said. She said she saw the flashes from the revolver when the shooting started.

Clark Shively, of Morgantown, was qualified as a character witness for Clifford. He said the defendant's reputation was "very good" and that his reputation as to veracity "was good."

Witnesses Disqualified
Most of the character witnesses were not qualified. Miss Betty Bennett of Betty's Maple Grill, testified that she investigated Clifford before employing him. His references were good, she said. However, she was unable to qualify as a character witness. The same was true in the cases of Vic Ricker, James McGuire and George Parson.

Albert A. Doub Jr., in his closing argument stressed the fact that Clifford, just prior to the shooting, went to police headquarters to see the assistant chief the same as on other occasions.

"Did you ever hear of a man planning to commit murder who went to police of an appointment an hour before he kept it?" Doub asked the jurors, adding that the defendant gave himself up voluntarily.

Instructing the jury, Judge Sloan said the members had a choice of five verdicts. They are: murder in the first degree, murder in the second degree without capital punishment, second degree murder, manslaughter, and not guilty.

A jury, to convict a man of first degree murder, must find that his crime was willful, deliberate and premeditated. Second degree murder is generally interpreted as killing in the heat of passion, with malice — not deliberated or premeditated. Manslaughter consists of death caused by gross negligence.

After hearing Judge Sloan, the jury retired. John B. Koonitz is foreman.

eight million francs as tribute and then hearkened back to the immortal words of Pinkney Millions for Defense but not One Cent for Tribute—and added that although these words were used 150 years ago they still held true in the United States today.

He warned that if the National Guard answers the call to some point beyond the border of its own states the Legion must be ready to answer the call if it comes. He called on the 10,000 members in the State of Maryland to do their part if the call comes and said he was hopeful 11,000 members would be on the books in the state next year. The state's quota for 1941 is 11,228, Fitzgerald concluded.

J. Nelson Trippy, Maryland Department adjutant, preceded Fitzgerald on the speaking program, and told of the enthusiasm shown throughout the department because the state's 1940 membership was 1,050 above the previous year. He presented Commander Claude Deal, of the local post, with a large photograph of the Annual Roundup for 1940 which was taken on the steps of the War Memorial in Baltimore.

Frederick A. Puderbaugh, former post commander, and first speaker to be introduced by Vincent P. Ingram, toastmaster, traced the rise of Fort Cumberland post from the time Daniel F. McMullen was commander to the present time. He stated that first steps toward the establishment of a permanent home were taken by McMullen when the post headquarters were moved from Prospect Square to the Wertheimer building, Baltimore street. He praised the work of Russell C. Puderbaugh, commander during his term as commander and also W. Earl Brooks who conceived the idea of a Legion Home.

Solvent to the 'nth Degree
Puderbaugh said that under the regime of Commander Wesley H. Abrams the local post moved into its present home on Harrison street. The purchase price was $12,000 and the down payment $150 a month. He added that at the time the post voted to purchase the new home many of the members had figured that it would take from ten to twenty years to clear the debt but two years and eight months later Fort Cumberland Post has cleared the mortgage. He further stated that the post today is solvent to the 'nth degree.

Robert C. Bowers, who served as post commander following Abram's term of office, also received praise for his part in helping cut down the debt while Harry Spiker, immediate past commander, was lauded for his untiring efforts in helping the post acquire its present home. Puderbaugh declared that the mortgage would have been cleared during the Spiker administration if $1,000 had not been loaned to the Department convention corporation early this year.

Puderbaugh Burns Mortgage
Puderbaugh officiated at the burning of the mortgage ceremony and prior to the procedure Toastmaster Ingram read a telegram from Reid C. Hoenicka, who wished the post success in its membership drive and warned that when the mortgage is burned "use a little

Paupé Gives Figures
Russell C. Paupe, adjutant of Fort Cumberland Post, said that in 1940 the local post had a membership of 437, an increase of thirty-two over the previous year. The 437 included 32 renewals, 72 new members and 39 reinstatements. He further stated that all new memberships received this year must include the serial number, the organization to which each man belonged the date of entry and the date of discharge. Paupe said that the Maryland department and National department of the American Legion insists on these requirements.

The turkey dinner was prepared under the supervision of Newton Parish.

Selections by the Keyser Legionettes, national championship women's quartet of Boyce Houser Post, Keyser, and a concert by the American Legion band under the direction of Joseph M. Pradisica comprised the entertainment program.

Legionettes Entertain
Among the selections presented by the Legionettes were "Bells of St. Mary's," "God Bless America," "The Man Who Comes Around," "Sweet Mystery of Life," "When Irish Eyes Are Smiling," "Hinkey Dinkey Parlez Vous" and "I Am an American," which was written by Marie Laing, a former Cumberlander.

Those seated at the speakers' table were Daniel F. McMullen, Wesley H. Abrams, Howard P. Loughrie, Harry Spiker, Robert C. Bowers, Frederick A. Puderbaugh, Vincent P. Ingram, all past commanders of Fort Cumberland post; Commander Claude Deal, Edward J. Ryan, mountain district vice-commander, Leo C. Reichert, finance officer; Russell Paupe, adjutant; Jack Nelson, membership chairman for 1941; Alec Hession, of Oakland, Mountain district executive committee; Dr. McDuffie, chaplain; James B. Fitzgerald, of Bethesda, former department commander, and J. Nelson Trippy, department adjutant.

Lieut. Col. George Henderson, former department commander, a late arrival, also was introduced to the audience at the close of the program.

Ten copies of the "History of American Armies in Europe," presented to the post by William D. Byron, of the House of Representatives, will be awarded to the ten members of the post bringing in the greatest number of memberships. It was announced.

Fort Cumberland Post will make an effort to secure 450 members in the 1941 campaign.

Republican Rally Is Held at Ridgeley

The rally sponsored by the Frankfort District Republican Club was attended by seventy-five persons last night at the Monnett building, in Ridgeley, W. Va.

John I. Rogers, Republican candidate for the West Virginia House of Delegates, delivered the principal address on "Issues of the Campaign."

G. E. Hiser, Ridgeley justice of the peace, talked against the three constitutional amendments.

An unexpected speaker was John C. Freeland, mayor of Keyser, W. Va., and a Republican candidate for sheriff of Mineral county. He urged the defeat of the Democratic candidate for sheriff, so as to break a twenty-four year tenure in office of Democratic sheriffs.

Harper's Ferry Bridges Get Federal Approval

CHARLES TOWN, W. Va., Oct. 24 (P)—The Federal Bureau of Public Roads has approved construction of two bridges over the Shenandoah and Potomac rivers at Harper's Ferry, Rep. Jennings Randolph (D-WVa) announced today. He said the federal government would pay half the total cost of $1,200,000. Road commission officials at Charleston said several questions must be settled before the structures, to replace bridges destroyed by a flood more than four years ago, are started.

Moving into New Neighborhood Brings Problems

Children May Have Hard Time Adjusting Selves to New Place

BY GARRY C. MYERS, Ph. D.

Moving into a new neighborhood may bring new problems to your child. Having liked the old community, this child may have a hard time adjusting himself in the new.

"Dear Dr. Myers: Would you please try to help me? My husband says I am just letting this problem get me down." Then she writes of her only child, boy, seven.

"He is a very affectionate child and well liked by both children and adults. I have had mothers bring their children to play with him, hoping they might learn some of his good traits and manners from him. I had a grandmother wish that her grandson would be like him; an expectant mother wish her unborn child would be like him. He gets along well in school. The teachers think he is fine.

"Three months ago we moved into this suburban town. The children, some older, some younger, like him and want to play with him. But the mothers don't feel the same about him. I overheard one mother say that if he were the only son on earth she wouldn't have him, that he is an awful child. One little girl, age four, said her mother did not want her to play with Billy, that he is a bad boy. . . . went and talked to the mother but could not find out.

Vivid Imagination
"Billy has a very vivid imagination. Seems like he is continually being anyone from the Lone Ranger to the mounted police. We just let him play. But I have noticed that some of these mothers curb it in their children.

"My husband and I spend a great deal of time with Billy. Father and son are real pals. Daddy will get down on the floor and come out as Jack o' Lantern and play. Just as though they were both small boys. We answer his questions as honestly as we can. . . . Sometimes the other children tell what they have been told. Of course Billy tells what he has been told and sticks by it because he knows it is the truth. Do you think this may be a source of the trouble?"

Help Billy Adjust Himself
My reply: "Your child's remarks, in the light of your wholesome instruction, easily could be the major factor. Better make it clear to him that, since some other parents do not explain to their children as you do, he had better not say a word when such matters come up. We must take into account the folkways of any community. From their point of view those mothers easily might suppose your child is a dangerous playmate. Don't expect to change them suddenly. Since, as you say, there are some foreign born parents in the neighborhood, your boy may innocently have dropped some other unfortunate remarks. In many ways he may seem different to them. Even his fine flights of imagination might annoy them.

"Just patiently go on trying to guide your boy to adapt himself and to win the respect of those parents and their children. Strive to make yourself a welcome newcomer in the neighborhood. Attract the children to your home and be a gracious hostess to them. Encourage your boy to cultivate playmates among those of his own age. And good luck."

Solving Parent Problems
Q. When is the child ready to be given an allowance?

A. When he proves he can save a nickel he receives on Monday for something he wants to buy Friday.

Q. You often advise not to punish in connection with eating and elimination. Suppose a child of 14 months throws food on the floor.

A. Remove all food from him at once and let him have nothing more till the next regular feeding time. While the punishment may be slow in effect, it avoids the danger of having the child connect pain with food and eating.

Hyndman Women Form Auxiliary To Fire Company

Mrs. Gilbert Twigg Is Elected President of
New Organization

HYNDMAN, Pa., Oct. 24—A large group of Hyndman women, together with delegations from the nearby Pennsylvania towns of Berlin, Jernettown, and Somerset, and from Wiley Ford, W. Va., gathered at Firemen's hall in the borough building here last night and organized a Ladies' Auxiliary to the Volunteer Fire Company. A charter membership was formed, with thirty-three women enrolled.

Mrs. L. E. Ainsman, the new president of the Somerset county association, presided until the group elected a president and vice president. Mrs. Gilbert Twigg and Mrs. Edward J. Philippi, respectively. After Mrs. Twigg took the chair, the remaining officers were elected: Recording secretary, Mrs. H. N. Van Voorhis; assistant recording secretary, Mrs. Mervin Devore; financial secretary, Mrs. Robert B. Elliott; and treasurer, Mrs. Walter H. Shaffer.

The second and fourth Thursday nights of each month were chosen as the regular time to meet hereafter. Representatives of each of the visiting auxiliaries made encouraging talks and extended invitations to the Hyndman organization to visit their groups at any future time. A social hour, with the serving of refreshments, concluded the program.

Hyndman Briefs

Howard H. Deane started excavating Tuesday at the corner of Church and Locust streets for the new bungalow he will soon construct. The work of digging the basement is being done by William W. Stahlman and Son. The land consists of a large double lot Mr. Deane, a local merchant, purchased a few weeks ago from the Cook estate. Mr. Deane has plans to occupy the new house himself. Improvements that will be made include the laying of a cement walk on the Locust street side, to replace cobblestones that have for many years furnished the only thoroughfare there for pedestrians.

The Hyndman Water Company announces that service will be discontinued for one hour on Saturday forenoon. They are cautioned to provide sufficient water in advance to take care of their needs during this time.

Hyndman Personals

Here's Way To Clean A Percolator Top

Hard water sometimes causes stains to form on the glass tops of percolators. To remove, boil the tops gently on a cloth placed in a pan of soda water. Put a tablespoon of soda into quart of water. Boil the tops 10 minutes and the stains will usually come off when rubbed lightly with a soft cleansing powder.

Return with Moose

The unerring marksmanship of Tucker county hunters was again proven when two brothers, Roscoe and Frank Arbogast, Parsons, returned home yesterday evening from a successful moose hunt at Biscotasing, Ontario, Canada.

The brothers succeeded in bagging a 1,200-pound moose, measuring sixty-two inches from horn to horn. They left Parsons October 10 and arrived in Sudbury, Canada, October 13, where they left their automobile. They then traveled by train for ninety miles, motor boat fifty miles and by canoe for thirty miles. Upon reaching Biscotasing they hired an Indian guide and on the second day of their hunt routed the moose, both shooting it and bringing it down. The moose head is on display at the Arbogast Brothers Ford garage.

Pioneer Resident of Garrett County Succumbs in Iowa at Age of 90

Jonas E. Gnagey, Grantsville, Leaves Ninety-Four Descendants

GRANTSVILLE, Oct. 24—A message was received here yesterday telling of the death of James E. Gnagey, 90, one of the pioneer residents of Garrett county. Mr. Gnagey died Wednesday morning at the home of his daughter, Mrs. G. A. Lininger, at Waterloo, Iowa, whom he had been visiting. A heart condition, together with complications brought on by his advanced age, was given as the cause of death.

Mr. Gnagey had suffered several slight heart attacks within the past month, and his condition had been critical for about a week. Until a month ago, Mr. Gnagey appeared to be in the best of health and was unusually active for one of his years. His sight was good and one of his chief pleasures was reading the daily papers.

Mr. Gnagey was born January 25, 1850 in the Cove section, and practically his entire life was spent in the Grantsville community. He was a son of Emmanuel and Eliza Livingston Gnagey, natives of the county, who for many years operated the farm near here now owned by Sam Herschberger. On August 7, 1873, he married Miss Elizabeth Swauger, who died at the age of 38 years following the birth of her sixteenth child.

While Mr. Gnagey engaged in farming to some extent, he was a cabinet maker by trade and for a number of years operated a planing mill here. He retired from all active business about fifteen years ago and had since spent his time visiting among his twelve children. He went to Wisconsin a year ago to visit a daughter and later went to Iowa. Mr. Gnagey had been a member of the Church of the Brethren for more than fifty years and until recently, when his hearing began to fail somewhat, attended church, regardless of the denomination, whenever possible.

Surviving are six daughters, Mrs. Robert Horne, Broadhead, Wis.; Mrs. G. A. Lininger, Waterloo, Iowa; Mrs. Harvey Parsons, Baltimore; Mrs. C. C. Beachy, Mrs. J. Urban Stanton and Mrs. Ollie E. Loebel, Grantsville; and C. E. Gnagey, Washington, Pa.; H. E. Gnagey, Santa Fe, N. M.; E. J. Gnagey, East Orange, N. J.; W. E. Gnagey, St. Paul, Pa.; and H. H. Gnagey, Boynton, Pa.; two sisters, Miss Sarah Gnagey and Mrs. Elizabeth Schrock, Pasadena, Calif.; forty-one grandchildren, thirty-four great-grandchildren and seven great-great-grandchildren. Mr. Gnagey thus leaves ninety-four descendants.

The body is to be brought to the home of Mrs. C. C. Beachy at Grantsville Saturday.

Danger to Press Freedom Seen In Bureaucracy

Grove Patterson, Editor of Toledo Blade, Raps Ickes and Minton

WHITE SULPHUR SPRINGS, W. Va., Oct. 24 (P)—Grove Patterson, editor of the Toledo Blade, asserted today that business must help preserve the freedom of the press if it hopes to save free enterprise from an attack by a "crippling bureaucracy."

The Ohio editor asked delegates at the convention of the Association of National Advertisers for a united fight against "common enemies" among "an ignorant bureaucracy that day by day lays down a barrage in a desperate effort to make us retreat toward an equilibrium of destruction."

He charged destruction of a free press was the first and essential step in such a campaign.

Naming Secretary of the Interior Harold Ickes and Senator Sherman Minton (D-Ind.) among them, the Toledo editor said bureaucrats were "trying to plant the seeds of suspicion and distrust in the minds of newspaper readers, so that if or when the time comes, they will be justified in taking over and destroying, either by regimentation or economic pressure, free newspapers."

"I say to you gentlemen," he said, "that the mind of the American public is being conditioned to accept the abolition of our right as newspapers to print the news without distortion and our right to comment on the news—our right to take sides and to be vigilant in our watchfulness for the preservation of the American way."

"The public is being conditioned to accept the abolition of your right as manufacturers and advertisers to engage in whatever business you please and to say what you will, within the bounds of common honesty, about the products you make."

"How would you like," Mr. Patterson continued, "to make up a newspaper list for an advertising campaign headed by such publications as Senator Minton's 'Supposed Telegram,' Harold Ickes' 'Daily Dirt,' Robert Jackson's 'Legal Stodge,' and Thurman Arnold's 'Cease and Desist?'"

Saying that the effectiveness of national advertising in newspapers needed no further proof, the editor asked the business group to remember also that their advertising dollars were necessary to give the press the independence necessary to survive.

"We cannot," he argued, "have an intellectually and a morally free press unless we are economically free. A newspaper, however free from governmental regulations, cannot really and actually be free unless it is profitable. And we cannot remain economically free unless you continue to use our advertising columns."

Denying that he intended any political inferences in his address, Mr. Patterson assailed a statement by President Roosevelt alleging unfair newspaper treatment of his administration. "The editor cited polls of newspaper readers themselves who by large majorities believed that both parties had been treated fairly by the press."

Col. Henderson

grows the love of more power, becoming at last the lust for all power.

Alexander swept over most of the then known world, and yearning for more worlds to conquer, Caesar, having won glory in Gaul, could not share his power with anyone, and the Roman Republic soon became the Roman Empire, and Caligula and Nero came along some years later, Napoleon, holding almost the entire continent of Europe in his sway, could not be content until Russia too bowed down.

"But why bother to try to prove what nearly everyone admits, the love of power is the most dangerous thing in the world and has caused far more misery to the human race than pestilence itself."

Slightly over 150 years ago our constitution was written, Henderson declared. The men who formulated it had lived under two extremes. They had seen the bad results of too much power in the throne and the bad results of too little power in the Confederation.

New Experiment
"And so they evolved a new experiment in government that was something between the two extremes: certain powers were lodged in the government, but it was not all confined in one man."

"There had to be an executive branch with a chief executive, but by entrusting the legislative and judicial powers to other independent hands there was created our system of checks and balances. The main purpose of our written constitution is to limit power. A ruler needs no written grant to give him power; he has it by virtue of his rule. We need a constitution to limit power. That power would be covered by men was foreseen by the founding fathers. And they tried to prevent the possibility of danger."

But there was one unfortunate loophole left—no limit was placed upon the number of terms the president could serve. That this was a mistake was recognized shortly afterwards. And that there should be no more than two terms was soon announced as a principle of this republic by those whose efforts had created it.

"We need not recall by name those who put aside the temptation to serve as the head of the republic."

HELD IN EGG-TOSSING

Charles Mulrain

Despite vigorous denials, Charles Mulrain, 53, unemployed, is held by Chicago police, accused of hurling eggs at Wendell L. Wilkie and his wife as they were boarding the Republican candidate's train in Chicago. Mrs. Wilkie was splattered by one egg. Another missile raised a welt on Wilkie's forehead.

after they had been twice honored. Their belief that the number of terms should be limited to two and their actions because of that belief are part of the history of this our country."

Senators Forget 1928
Henderson declared that in 1928 there was introduced in the Senate a resolution which denounced a third term as "unwise, unpatriotic, and fraught with peril to our free institutions." He pointed out that among those who supported the resolution were Senators Barkley, Wagner and Neely who are now asking that Roosevelt be elected for the third time, and other prominent Democrats who were strong for the principle in 1928, but who now hate to ride along on the third term band wagon.

Henderson declared that in Maryland there has been no limit on the right of a governor to succeed himself. It was seen to be a danger to good government and two years ago Herbert O'Connor, now governor, campaigned on a platform that contained a pledge to amend our constitution by adding to it a safeguard that is in the constitutions of so many other states to the effect that a governor cannot succeed himself.

"Since he became governor, he has carried out that pledge, has signed the law proposing an amendment to the state constitution and on Nov. 5 you will see on your ballot the proposed O'Connor amendment to the effect that governor of Maryland shall not be eligible to succeed himself," Henderson said.

Power Is Dangerous
"And if the power of long continuance in office is dangerous in a state where the amount of patronage is small, where the number of officeholders are few, how much more dangerous is it in the case of the chief executive of the nation with the vast powers of patronage in his hands," Henderson asked.

"We are a country of over 130 millions of people. In all that number there is nobody else to whom the presidency could be entrusted? If so then the old doctrine of the divine right of kings has become the doctrine of the divine right of Roosevelt."

"Our country existed before Roosevelt; do we want to admit it cannot continue after he is dead?"

"Is he really the indispensable man, or is it not rather that through the power which the office has and through the power of political patronage, he has been able to compel his nomination in spite of the Democrats who had at heart the traditions of their party and above all the good of their country."

Sought Emergency Powers
"We have already vested in Roosevelt power and authority such as never before has been vested in a president."

"He has sought these many emergency powers, but what single power has he voluntarily relinquished?"

"President Roosevelt himself once said, 'we have built up new instruments of public power which in other hands would provide shackles for the liberties of the people.'"

"We have the right under the constitution to re-elect President Roosevelt for a third term."

But if we do then we have the warning of Washington, Jefferson, Jackson and of all those other presidents, patriots and statesmen that something that is of the essence of our democracy will be gone—and gone forever."

Citizens of what is still a democracy, is it worth the risk?"

Governor To Crown King and Queen Of Annual Apple Harvest Festival

Holt Accepts Invitation To Take Part in Fete at Martinsburg

PAW PAW, W. Va., Oct. 24 — Governor Homer A. Holt will crown the king and queen of the sixth annual Apple Harvest Festival at Martinsburg November 9, James M. Sellers, director-general, announced today.

The state's chief executive today wired his acceptance of the invitation to take part in the second oldest of the many West Virginia festivals which will be held here November 8, 9, 10 and 11.

He will place crowns upon the heads of Miss Mary Lou Bullard, of Wheeling, the "All-American Girl of 1940," and Henry M. Miller, Jr., one of the biggest apple growers in this fertile four-state production area — West Virginia, Pennsylvania, Maryland and Virginia.

Miss Bullard will reign as "Queen Mary Lou" while Miller will be "King Henry."

More than 50,000 people are expected to attend the festival festivities, which will be highlighted by the four-mile long parade, two days, an apple show, band concert, a pageant, and numerous contests.

uses for coal and thus new markets. If you folks had the markets, you wouldn't need to worry about prices. Nor would the man who mines the coal have to worry about getting regular work.

"If I'm elected to Congress that's what I'm going to work for. It will take time, so in the meanwhile we may have to find a way to take up the slack. My friend Harry Nice, whom you folks should elect to the Senate on Nov. 5, is working on such a plan. I'll give him all the help I can."

Facts about Dam

"Now just one thing more. There seems to be an argument here in the county about who was most instrumental in providing the people of Western Maryland with the Savage river dam. Here are the facts as most of you already know."

"In July 1935, Mr. Mark Roe, formerly chief engineer for the Kelly-Springfield Tire Company, presented a detailed report to the county commissioners of this county showing the necessity for a storage dam in the Savage river. Those commissioners were A. Charles Stewart, Nelson Russler and James Holmes. On March 5, 1937, those commissioners appropriated $20,000 from county funds for the preliminary survey, and the Savage River Dam Commission was appointed."

"These men followed up the matter and, with the help of Jennings Randolph, Representative in Congress from West Virginia, carried the project to completion. Those ladies and gentlemen are the facts with reference to this very helpful project. I want to give credit to my friend Charlie Stewart for this fine work."

"And now, as I return to my home county for the few days of campaigning left, I ask that you all go to the polls on Nov. 5, and cast your vote for Wendell Wilkie for President, Harry W. Nice for the Senate, and last, please don't overlook me down at the tail end of the ballot."

ORDER OF PUBLICATION

Claude Richard Hartley vs. Sue Beattie

No. 1284 Equity. In the Circuit Court for Allegany County, Maryland.

The object of this suit is to procure an annulment of the marriage of the plaintiff to the defendant, Sue Beattie Hartley.

The Bill states that the parties were married on the 28th day of December, 1935, at Cumberland, Allegany County, Maryland, and that on or about the 23rd day of June, 1940, the defendant abandoned and deserted the plaintiff without any just cause or reason, and declared her intention to live with him no longer, and thereafter the plaintiff learned that there was a prior existing marriage between the defendant and one Thomas Barkins, and that there were no children born unto the marriage of the plaintiff and the defendant and that the plaintiff has been a resident of the State of Maryland for many years, and the defendant is a non-resident of the State of Maryland.

It is thereupon this 1st day of October, 1940, by the Circuit Court for Allegany County, in equity, ordered that the plaintiff be causing a copy of this order to be inserted in some newspaper published in Allegany County once in each of four successive weeks before the 2nd day of November, 1940, give notice to the said absent defendant of the object and substance of this Bill warning her to appear in this Court in person, or by solicitor on or before the 15th day of November, 1940, to show cause why she has, why a decree should not be passed as prayed.

Political Pot Beginning To Boil In Garrett; Both Parties Active

Republicans Continue Community Meetings; Democrats Hold Rally

OAKLAND, Oct. 24 — With part of the first week's series of Republican rallies behind them, members of the Republican State Central Committee of the county announced that reaction everywhere has been favorable and that prospects for a successful campaign were particularly bright. But there will be no set up in the work they said.

A series of meetings for the entire county was arranged last week and thus far there have been rallies at Bray, Pinzel, Avilton, Kitzmiller and Bloomington.

Local Republican leaders have been assisted at these meetings by Walter P. Johnson, Republican candidate for Congress; Estel Kelly, Cumberland attorney; and members of the Young Republican club. Mr. Johnson was indisposed Wednesday but kept his appointment at Bloomington last night and continued on to Allegany county.

Julius C. Renninger, chairman of the Republican committee, announced the schedule for the remainder of the period: Deer Park, tonight; Jennings, Friday night; Swanton, Saturday.

Sang Run, Monday, October 28; House, Tuesday, October 29; Accident, Wednesday, October 30; Friendsville, Thursday, October 31; Grantsville, Friday, November 1; Bittinger, Saturday, November 2; White Church, Saturday, November 2; Crellin, Monday, November 4.

Mr. Renninger also stated it was not definitely settled about the Wilkie train either stopping or not stopping here. Efforts in this direction have been made, and Mr. Renninger talked with W. David Tilghman Jr., Baltimore, state Republican committee chairman, this morning, and he reported the committee was still working on it.

The train would be due here about 2 o'clock October 30, enroute to Baltimore from Clarksburg, W. Va. Stops have been scheduled at Keyser, W. Va., and at Cumberland.

Democrats Rally

About seventy-five attended a Young Democrat club rally last night at their headquarters here, with Robert Lohn, president, in charge.

Grover C. Stemple, chairman of the Democratic State Central Committee for Garrett county, spoke briefly of the campaign and activity of the clubs throughout the county.

Representative W. D. Byron stressed the political situation in this district, and Asa T. Matthews, Oakland attorney and member of the county committee, spoke on the qualifications of the two presidential candidates.

An added feature was a vocal solo by Charles L. Bringer Jr. Prior

An unmarried woman has her visiting cards engraved, "Miss Violet Blank," not just "Violet Blank."

Frankness Can Do Much Harm, Writer Declares

By BEATRICE FAIRFAX, Famous Authority on Problems of Love and Marriage — Distributed by King Features Syndicate, Inc.

Case History: Mrs. K. is the charming, chirpy type of woman who suggests a canary. She looks so youthful for her 46 years that she actually tells her true age. And basks in the doubts and exclamations which follow.

Her family consists of a doting husband and two married sons. Her background is a small, beautifully appointed background, and her earthly Paradise is the cocktail hour at a smart restaurant. She likes to have someone share her cocktails, and if she has no one else to go with she will invite one or the other of her daughters-in-law.

Mrs. K. never takes above two of these hearteners. The first makes her feel the world is a pretty good place in spite of conditions in Europe. The second inspires confidence. She tells what she really thinks about people, especially the daughter-in-law who isn't present.

Don't, don't, don't, my dear friends, take the second cocktail, if you are inclined to rush out in unrestricted frankness concerning what you feel about someone else, particularly an in-law. Families have been disrupted on account of this apparently harmless excitement to confidence.

You may have succeeded for weeks and months in bottling up your real feelings regarding your mother-in-law, daughters-in-law, father-in-law, or any other in-law with whom the fates have presented you. But in the exhilarating devil-may-care mood of that second cocktail-barricade fall with a rush.

Take the case of pretty, chirping Mrs. K., who didn't look within fifteen years of her age—there was that second cocktail. And two minutes past the time she had fished out the olive she confided to Myrtle what she really thought about Daisy, the absent daughter-in-law.

Daisy was a flibberty-gibbet, and what Tom had ever seen in her would always remain a mystery. Daisy had her hair done twice a week as if that would improve her. And before she got her makeup on, she looked like a corpse. Daisy's housekeeping was a joke, and if it weren't for the can-opener, there'd be no housekeeping at all, etc. etc. Myrtle, the other daughter-in-law, didn't take cocktails. She sipped a half glass of sherry when she went out with her mother-in-law, because she "felt it was her duty" to be friendly with Frank's mother. But she was human enough to wonder what the lady said about her when she went out with Daisy. She did a little probing, and discovered that her belle mere thought her dull, uninformed and a house-cat; her clothes looked as if they were fitted when she was a hundred miles away. And Frank would never get anywhere in this world with such a trump for a wife.

Moral: Now, neither of these daughters-in-law is speaking to her husband's mamma. Both men have been dragged into the fight, and the patient father-in-law, as well, who never did anything but pay the family bills. All three felt his taste in wives had been impugned.

Don't wait for New Year's to make this resolution, but decide immediately never to tell your innermost thoughts about in-laws or anyone else, during the cocktail hour or at any other time. Alcohol confers what used to be called "Dutch courage." And oh, the reversal of that false bravery after the stimulus is over and you face the terrible question. "What on earth have I said?"

Bein' sociable-like needn't cost you much. A cup o' LIPTON'S, for example, is a grand drink to serve when somebody's callin'—an' ain't it nice that even as fine a tea as LIPTON'S costs less than anything you kin drink except water!

The reason for Lipton's matchless flavor? 70 years of blending skill... combining choice teas (each selected for some distinctive quality) with those notable teas grown in Lipton's own Ceylon gardens.

Preparedness "Behind the Lines"

American Red Cross, Already Busy With Domestic Duties, Undertakes Heavy Defense Program; Mercy Work Of Past Year Benefited Many Thousands

DOMESTIC responsibilities arising from the national defense program and the extension of war relief aid in Europe and Asia give the American Red Cross its busiest year since the World War.

War Relief Worker

While more than 500,000 American women are engaged in the production of garments and surgical dressings for the war-stricken of other nations, thousands of volunteers throughout the nation play an important part in strengthening our own defenses.

Volunteer blood donors enable the Army and Navy to perfect methods of plasma transfusions that may some day save thousands of lives. Through the Red Cross, a force of medical technologists is being mobilized for call by the Army and Navy in the event of national emergency. The Red Cross nursing reserve of 43,000 registered nurses is being strengthened for equally important work should they be needed.

Conscription has meant heavy increases in the responsibilities of Red Cross field representatives in naval and military posts. Even last year, with a skeletonized peace-time Army and Navy, the American Red Cross handled the problems of more than 53,000 enlisted men needing help as a result of family and economic difficulties. Similarly, aid was given to more than 150,000 veterans of past wars by the Red Cross during the year.

Although world conditions have imposed added obligations on the Red Cross at home and abroad, disaster relief and the day-to-day services have resulted in one of the most active years. More than 100,000 victims of floods, tornadoes, fires and other forms of disaster were given emergency shelter, food, medical attention and aided in rebuilding their homes. Some 95,000 young Americans were trained in Life Saving methods and water safety.

The Junior Red Cross, America's largest youth organization with a membership of 8,500,000, was active in community, national and international projects. From First Aid courses there were graduated 379,000 persons, qualifying them to carry on the Red Cross' tireless campaign against accidental death. More than 9,000,000 "check lists" were distributed to urban and rural families as an educational project designed to eliminate everyday accident hazards in the home and on the farm.

Every patriotic man and woman in America is urged to aid in the Red Cross national defense preparedness "behind the lines" by joining as a member of the local Red Cross Chapter during the annual Roll Call, November 11-30.

NURSES STAND BY—A corps of 43,000 Red Cross reserve nurses are pledged for duty in time of emergency.

WILLING HELPERS—Members of the Junior Red Cross lend willing hands in sewing for war victims.

AIDING INDUSTRY—Red Cross First Aid training plays important part to safeguard industrial workers.

DISASTER VICTIMS—Food, shelter and clothing last year given victims of 102 disasters.

PRETTY PREPAREDNESS!—Smiles of service come from two members of the American Red Cross volunteer "army," a band of 500,000 American women working for national defense behind the lines.

EMERGENCY BLOOD—To enable the Army and Navy to perfect blood plasma transfusions, as above, for national defense, Red Cross volunteers donate their blood. A medical technologist reserve also is being enrolled for the military.

CONTACT!—A personal message is handed a Navy flier by a Red Cross field director. These workers, stationed in military posts, aid members of the armed forces with their economic and social problems. A growing military has added to their responsibilities.

GET THE MOST POINTS YOU NEVER wish to accept one score on a deal if you have some way to score more. That principle should be ever borne in mind when you are vulnerable and have some brisly bidding opponents who are trying to make you double their not-vulnerable contracts. Then, if ever, is the time to speak the truth about your strength as emphatically as you can by the bids chosen, so your partner, too, may be guided accurately in what he does.

What terrible bidding by South! It lost the team-of-four match for his side. At the other table, the South player bid 2-Hearts over the same interrupting 1-Diamond call by East and, although West hopped to 5-Diamonds there, too, North refused to double. Instead, he bid 6-Hearts, which was made like rolling off a log, with the loss of only one trick, to the diamond A.

There were recriminations by both partners at this table after the hand was over. South tried to justify his first bid of just 1-Heart on the ground that it was a free bid after East had made a call and therefore showed a certain amount of strength. He wanted to be in a position to show his power by later giving a "reverse bid" of spades, the higher ranking suit, which also would tell North about the five-four distribution between the two suits. North, however, pointed out that South could have used that maneuver anyway, after having first forced with hearts.

North also found fault with South's pass of his double. He pointed out that South could have atoned for his first mistake by bidding 5-Spades over the 5-Diamond double, which would have forced the calling to small slam in something. This would have been safe because he had two of his partner's clubs, if North didn't fit the majors.

Following normal bidding of this hand, if West leads his two top spades and then a third one against 4-Hearts, how should South play his trump suit to protect himself against the largest number of likely distributions?

ONE BUS, 52 SUITCASES: It's the von Trapp Clan on Tour

By ADELAIDE KERR
AP Feature Service Writer

Elinor

out of the window of a big green private bus as it rolls westward along the country's highways.

She, along with eleven other members of the Austrian family of Baron von Trapp, the family priest, and 52 suitcases are off on a singing and playing concert tour of 41 towns. They expect to go from New York to the coast and back in time for three concerts in Town Hall just before Christmas.

The blue-eyed baroness has one of the trickiest and most trying of women's jobs. She's the mother to three and step-mother to ten, their ages ranging from two to 28.

She's also boss of a self-exiled family that supports itself by the concerts, runs its own newspaper, makes its own clothes and shoes and troops everywhere en masse. And she does it all with a smile.

Accent on Teamwork

What's her recipe for peace in that combustible mixture?

"Teamwork," she reports. "We all work together on music and that gives us a feeling of togetherness. But each of us also has his own separate responsibility, interests and jobs, and that gives us a satisfying individuality. We keep so busy we've no time for trouble."

"Rupert, the oldest boy, is a physician. Werner, the second, is a champion skier, composes instrumental music and plays the violin. The two oldest daughters, Agathe and Johanna (who paints) are the family housekeepers."

"Hedwig, who has a flair for nursing, takes care of us all, especially the two little girls, Rosemarie and Elinor. Maria carves wood and knits for the whole family. Martina makes caricatures for the family newspaper and fun for everybody. She's also chief gardener at home. Everybody helps with cooking and housework and looks after Johannes, the baby."

Seek Citizenship

Until almost the end of the turbulent thirties, Baron von Trapp-

a U-boat commander in the last war—lived with his family in their old home near Salzburg. Those were golden days of music, mountain climbing and fun.

Then came the Anschluss and three years ago the baron packed up his big family and brought them to America to live. Now home is a big roomy house in Merion, Pa., and some of the young von Trapps—all barons and baronesses in their own right—have applied for their first American citizenship papers.

When the von Trapps visit New

The Baroness

York they live in a midtown hotel and troop around together in Austrian dirndls and Alpine mountain-climbing suits. They take all their meals together in a Chinese restaurant and spend hours at the Metropolitan museum. On their last visit they held their own mass every day in a little private chapel at St. Patrick's Cathedral. The baron goes on all the trips, but doesn't take part in the concerts.

Family mass is conducted by Dr. Franz Wagner, a young composer and priest, who has been with the von Trapps six years. He is also their musical coach.

Among the Carib Indians, in South America, the last of the truly American savages, the men speak a different language than the women, according to the Rev. Paul D. Redmond, former faculty member of Providence college.

Advice to the Laura Wheeler Puts Glamour Lovelorn In Reach of Every Housewife

By BEATRICE FAIRFAX
Distributed by King Feature Syndicate, Inc.

A Grand Halloween Party

DEAR MISS FAIRFAX:

Our crowd tried out several of the "Quaint Parties" we read about in your column, and one engagement actually resulted from the alphabet party. Now we want to give these two lovers a Halloween party and help along two more couples who seem to be dangling on the verge of an engagement.

Unless the weather is going to be particularly warm, I think we'd better make it an indoor affair. A boy friend of one of the girls has borrowed a barn from his uncle for the occasion. What would you suggest?

E. R.

The decorations should consist of pumpkins, sheaves of wheat and autumn vegetables. Arrange these along the wall and on the trestle table on which the supper is to be served. Pumpkin lanterns are in keeping with the celebration. It is important that every lantern be properly shielded so that you won't have a fire on your hands.

There's a wide latitude as to costume for Halloween parties—witches hats for girls, hobgoblin clothes for boys or peasant costumes, if you happen to have any on hand.

Fortune-telling is the great stunt for a Halloween party. Fortunes may be told with cards, palm reading or tea leaves. You don't have to be very accurate. Everyone is interested in hearing of nice things about himself. Music can be furnished by a couple of country fiddlers and a guitar.

"Bobbing for apples is watery, but 'good clean fun.' At midnight, the real fun begins. A girl walks backward out of doors, and looks in a mirror to see the face of her future husband. A young man with serious intentions should manage to be on hand to look over her shoulder.

Wind up the evening with country dances, such as the Virginia Reel. The suits suitable to the occasion are pumpkin pies, doughnuts, cider, popcorn, and candied apples.

When a Lady Isn't a Lady

DEAR MISS FAIRFAX:

I come from a part of the country where we do not allow ladies to stand in streets, but sometimes, when I give a lady my seat, she doesn't even say "thank you," though I notice she usually takes it. Again, the men who see me do this act of common courtesy smile. Do they think I'm a boob?

GEORGE

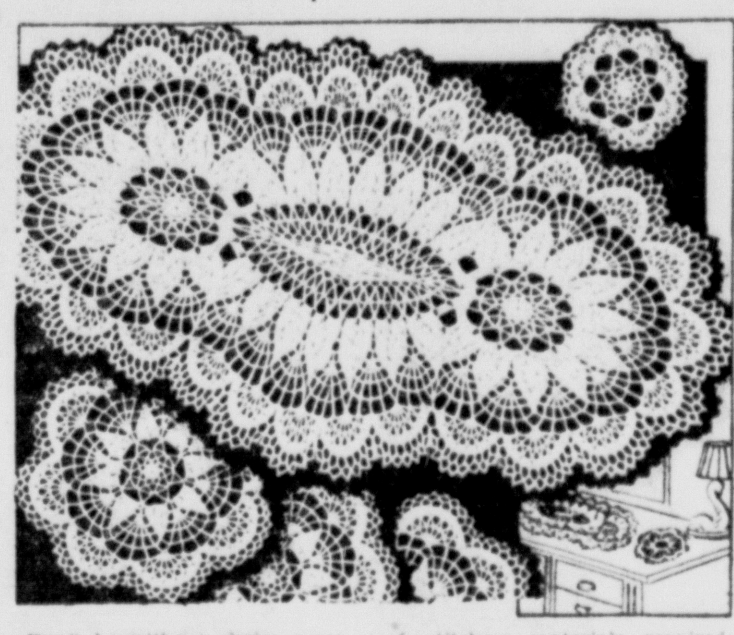

Any "lady" who accepts a seat in a streetcar and doesn't say "thank you" isn't a lady. It is certainly a very courteous gesture, whether it evokes smiles or not.

In Love with Brother-in-Law

DEAR MISS FAIRFAX:

I've been married only a few months to a man I never loved and knew it before we were married. I thought I had to go through with the wedding rather than cause a lot of gossip if I broke my engagement.

And now, since my marriage, I find myself in love with my husband's older brother. I know my husband loves me dearly, and I don't want to hurt him, but must I sacrifice all my life's happiness for this foolish

Don't be without choice accessories since you can crochet them so economically. These lovely doilies serve many uses in string or finer cotton. Pattern 2674 contains directions for making doilies; illustration of them and mistake? What can I do, Miss Fairfax? Please help me.

UNHAPPY.

To tell you now you should have turned back, even at the altar, if you weren't in love with the man you married, would be like locking the stable after the horse is stolen. But as long as you made this mistake, I hope you are not going to add another mistake to it by going on with an affair involving your husband's brother.

You haven't said whether this man loves you, but for all your sakes I hope he doesn't. Take up something which will interest you—some work or study. And please do not live so exclusively on your emotions.

18. She Loves Widower 38

DEAR MISS FAIRFAX:

I'm 18 years of age and deeply in love with a man of 38, a widower with two children, a girl of 5 and a boy of 9. He has asked me to marry him and I have accepted. It is not an affair of love at first sight. I've known him for six years, but never went out with him while his wife was living.

It must sound foolish to you that a girl of my age could fall in love with a man his age. I know what I am doing, however, and he said he won't give me up even if my parents don't consent. He has an excellent position, and will have a pension when he retires in five years, and has a job waiting for him when he retires.

My problem is how to break the news to my parents. I must tell them, but I don't know how to go about it. I'm just about insane thinking this thing, and will be watching for your answer.

F. F. S.

When a girl of 18 decides she's in love with a man twenty years older than she, it's a good thing to do a little mental arithmetic before taking the final marriage vows.

Some day when you're feeling really prudent, say to yourself: "When I'm 25, he will be 45, and it's more than likely he won't care about the things I do. When I want to go to a dance, he'll probably want to stay home and sit by the fire. Probably he won't care for outings.

And how about these step-children, one of whom is half your age? Won't they be rather a handful for a girl of 18? As for breaking the news to your parents, if they are opposed to the match, there isn't anything to do but tell them about it. If you were my daughter, I'd hope and pray you'd wait a while.

Bad-Mannered Husband

DEAR MISS FAIRFAX:

My husband has a bad habit of speaking to his mother in a foreign language, which I do not understand, and I can tell by the tone of it that they are speaking about me and it's very embarrassing. I have asked him to wait until I leave the room if he wants to say something privately.

His family have always been mean to me, and as we live in the same building with them, I am so unhappy. I've asked my husband to move, but he says his family needs him. He finally consented to move in the spring.

If I want some money he never wants to give me any, but gives me just enough for housekeeping, and nothing for clothes. When I want to go for an auto ride, he says "no gas," but when his brother asks for the car, he says "go ahead." Do you think I should get a divorce or stick to him and see whether he will move next spring, as he promised?

It's not necessary for me to say that to speak in a foreign language before someone who doesn't understand it is rude. But there's a type of man who imagines, when it comes to his wife, good manners aren't necessary, and rudeness is the proper behavior.

However, unless you go to one of those states where the only requirement for divorce seems to be if you've gone through a marriage ceremony, you couldn't get a divorce unless on the grounds of "mental cruelty." And to be practical, what means have you for taking care of yourself after the divorce has been secured? In your place, I'd go to a night school and learn the foreign language. There'd be lots of fun in their surprise when they discovered you knew what they were talking about.

Family Opposes Nationality

DEAR MISS FAIRFAX:

I'm 22 years of age and my girl friend is 20 years old. We met about a year and a half ago, and have been going "steady" for a year. I visited at her home and everything went along all right until they found out my nationality, and refused to allow her to see me.

However, we've been seeing each other on the sly, and have had many good times, and find we're very much in love with each other. Now her family have found out about these secret meetings, and have threatened her in various ways. We haven't seen each other for weeks. What would you suggest to do?

DISAPPOINTED.

As everyone knows, there are good and bad people in all nationalities, and if your girl's family found nothing wrong with you until they discovered where you came from, it's very narrow-minded of them to object to you now. The only thing I don't like about this friendship is your sneaking out to see the girl on the sly. Such meetings aren't the best things for one's character.

It would be better if the young lady braved the wrath of her parents and told them she was seeing you.

Several Political Talks Are Listed On Air Networks

Lewis, Lowden, Cobb and Others Will Discuss the Issues

By C. E. BUTTERFIELD
Associated Press Radio Editor

NEW YORK, Oct. 24.—Political talks are booming louder and louder over the airwaves these days with figures from other fields joining the politicians on the radio broad-casts.

Radio listings for Friday carry at least six major political addresses. Heading the list is the talk by John L. Lewis, CIO chief, under an unannounced sponsor over WEAP-NBC and WABC-CBS from 2 to 3:30, immediately following a half-hour talk over WOR-MBS by the Democrats' vice-presidential candidate, Henry Wallace.

Lowden Listed

Former Governor Frank Lowden of Illinois is scheduled over NBC-WEAP from 8:30-9 on a Republican program and Democratic National Chairman Ed Flynn will hold down a fifteen-minute spot from 9:45 on NBC-WJZ.

Irvn S. Cobb goes on over CBS-WABC in a Democratic-for-Wilkie address at 9:30 and Kathleen Norris, speaking under the sponsorship of the Women's division of Wilkie Clubs, tells "What Women Can Do" in a fifteen-minute broadcast over the same chain at 3:30 p. m.

Tribute to Doughnut

Bob Ripley is paying tribute to the doughnut tonight (WABC-CBS 10) in recognition of Doughnut Week. His show will have five special doughnut guests: A. I. Plant of New York City who sells the holes in doughnuts, McVittie of Denver, who has eaten a doughnut a day for 33 years, and a family of three who claims the world's dunking championship.

The usual heavy quota of war news broadcasts finds the following scheduled: NBC-WEAP 9, 1:45; CBS 8 a. m., 4:45 p. m., 10:45; NBC-WJZ 8, 4:55, 9:30 p. m.; MBS 11 a. m., 2, 6, 10:30.

Physical Therapy Council Suggests A New Home Treatment for Arthritis

By LOGAN CLENDENING, M. D.

Special kinds of light or heat are not necessary for the successful treatment of arthritis. A homemade baker is suggested by the Council on Physical Therapy of the American Medical Association.

It can be constructed out of an ordinary piece of sheet tin curved in a roof-like fashion on a framework of strap iron or rods. Two double electric sockets are attached to the under surface of the roof and the necessary wiring installed. Bulbs of either 60 or 120 watts, or a combination may be inserted. In short, the thing is a sort of half barrel-shaped arrangement which sits on the bed over the legs and gives them a good warming. Clamp lamps can be used in the same way for arthritis of the shoulder or wrist.

Contrast baths constitute a form of treatment discovered comparatively recently which is very effective and is certainly typically suited to be a form of home treatment. Contrast baths consist in rapid alternations of immersion in hot and cold water. Obviously they are most convenient for arthritis of the extremities—the feet or hands, but they can be arranged for the elbows or knees. They are especially recommended for arthritis.

Embezzlement Charge Against Coal Official Is Ordered Dismissed

BECKLEY, W. Va., Oct. 24 (AP)—An indictment accusing the president of the Leecoony Smokeless Fuel Company of embezzling $666.75 in union dues was dismissed today in Raleigh county criminal court.

Special Prosecutor T. C. Townsend of Charleston moved to nolle prosequi the bill naming Harry E. Moran of New York, who had posted $500 bond pending trial.

Townsend, counsel for the United Mine Workers in West Virginia and one of the witnesses who appeared before the grand jury, gave no reason for asking the dismissal.

The indictment was returned by a grand jury Tuesday, charging that dues were collected under the United Mine Workers "checkoff" system between October 1938, and March, 1939, but never were turned over to the union.

School will be closed Friday on account of a teachers meeting in Baltimore.

And Paul Jones' growth has been something to marvel at, too! Here's what happened: Two years ago Paul Jones was being praised by connoisseurs for its delightful, non-sweet dryness. But though there were many men who enjoy dry, tangy whiskey, some felt they couldn't afford Paul Jones at its former price.

So we reduced the price—without changing any of Paul Jones' expensive qualities! In less than two years... Paul Jones' popularity has increased five times!

Carnegie Tech Has Sunk to Class "B" Level

Coach Views Game with Case This Week as "Big Threat"

PITTSBURGH, Oct. 24 (AP)—Carnegie Tech, one-time giant of the college football world, sank to the level of "B" class in the new college football classification.

Graduate Manager Clarence Overend, who in the last two decades had seen the Tartans rise to heavy punts and then sink, said frankly that Tech is "just dropping out of the big time."

Tartan fortunes sank to their lowest ebb Saturday under the 61-0 pounding by Notre Dame. With reserves scarce and regulars injured, Coach Eddie Baker is looking forward to little case as a "big threat" next Saturday.

It all started, Overend said, when President Robert Doherty told a surprised press conference in 1937 the athletic department had been placed completely under school control and scholarships on athletic funds had been eliminated.

Carnegie Tech is going to let football seek its own level, Doherty said then. "If Tech's alumni desire to send deserving athletes and students here, it will be all right with us. In fact we are going to encourage such action."

We will play the teams that want to schedule us, no matter what level of football it may put us in. It means dropping out of class A football, we'll just drop out."

Tech at that time established the Walter P. Steffen scholarship fund, as a memorial to Tech's coach in his dying days, and invited alumni contributions. But, as Overend explained today, "that thing doesn't go along on an even keel."

We got into the big time, then discontinued scholarships, and we'll be all right in our own class.

We're dropping down to class B and we'll probably have a lot of fun at that. Our schedules in 1941-42 include Grove City, Westminster, Geneva, Lehigh and similar teams. We are trying to cut the schedule down to schools where we might win a football game. But we had football when we were beaten and always will have it."

Bob Gregory, Wrestler, Wins Divorce Decree

LOS ANGELES, Oct. 24 (AP)—Bob Gregory, English wrestler, won a divorce today from Valerie Brooke Gregory, daughter of the "White Rajah" of Sarawak, on grounds of desertion. He told the court Mrs. Gregory went to London last year.

Valerie's father is Sir Charles Vyner Brooke, governor of the province of Sarawak, a portion of Borneo.

Electrons, Farads Pace P. E. Dux League

The Electronics and Farads continued to make a runaway of the Protonom League race by scoring 2-1 victories over Olms and Watts, respectively, in rolling this week at the Savoy.

Power pulled into a four-way tie for the third spot by defeating the Amperes 3-0 while the Volts defeated the Demands 2-1 in another match. E. Cook's 500 was the top set of the scores.

Here is the daffiest bunch as yet: Army loses to Lafayette.

Call me a wizard, if and when Michigan succumbs to Penn.

Call me a wizard and say it twice if Texas overpowers Rice.

And build a statue to my brain if Carolina heels Tulane.

The man who bets Wake Forest to conquer Duke's arkay will be the very worst Guy in the world, come Saturday.

This is close, but Georgia's luck is bound to turn, she'll beat Kentucky.

They're in and out at Iowa, But Minnesota's here to stay.

I might devote two stanzas to Kansas State and Kansas, But not at these here rates. The game is Kansas State's.

I'll make a bet to win on case, And another on Carnegie Tech to place.

Cornell is most offensive, And most defensive too, I'm somewhat apprehensive For Ohio State, ain't you?

When Blumstock blocks And Filpewicz carries, I gotta take Fordham—I'm sorry, St. Mary's.

If Stanford wallows U.S.C. (And that's my choice in the main event), The ticket on the coast will be Clark Shaughnessy for president.

It ain't no use picking Syracuse, Columbia's fast and Columbia's loose, The N.Y.U.'s will sing the blues, For Georgetown don't know how to lose.

Contest to Find a Rhyme For Williams Still Open

Released by North American Newspaper Alliance

By JOHN LARDNER
NEW YORK, Oct. 24 (AP)—I seems only yesterday as we lined up our punts on the sixteenth green at Sandwich, that the poet Tennyson asked me whether I knew anything good in the football lineup that week.

"Who do you like in the Dartmouth-Harvard game?" asked his lordship, covering laying me a stylus with the toe of his shoe. "I can't figure that one."

"Listen, then," I replied coolly, "if you want that information, you will have to wait and get it Friday in the newspapers. No man receives advance dope from me. I owe it to the public to keep my selections secret until publication. Otherwise you are apt to go out and bet a couple of quid and blow the price to blazes. Understand?"

"No," said Tennyson sulkily, but I ignored him. That has always been my policy—to ignore Tennyson and keep faith with the public. That's what you get if you vote for me. And when elected—well, anyway, here are this week's winners, fresh from the factory to you.

The Irish can and will annoy The football team at Illinois. And if you call it Illinois, I still like Elmer Layden's boys.

Pete Sachon Is Nominated as All-American

Coach Dutch Bergman Says Catholic U. Quarter "Has Everything"

WASHINGTON, Oct. 24 (AP)—Coach Dutch Bergman of Catholic University, who played alongside the great George Gipp and therefore reasons he ought to know an All-American when he sees one, went out on the limb today for Pete Sachon.

"I never told an All-American," said the old Notre Dame back, "but here's a boy on our little team who not only has everything, but uses it. He could quarterback any team in the United States."

Pete weighs 168 pounds and he comes from Coalade, Pa., where his father, a Russian by birth, works in a coal mine. This is his third year of piloting the Catholic Cardinals.

Sachon is a triple-threat and what's more, he's a master in the all-but-forgotten art of the drop kick.

So far this season he's hit the headlines every Saturday. Against Detroit, he punted 10 times, averaging 52 yards from the line of scrimmage, which is a figure any punter in professional ranks would settle for. Playing the entire 60 minutes as he usually does, he completed five out of 10 passes for a gain of 45 yards.

Western Maryland Is Ready for Terrapins

WESTMINSTER, Md., Oct. 24 (AP)—The Western Maryland College football team, gunning for its first victory over the University of Maryland since 1936, will be at full strength for the state championship clash with the Terrapins in Baltimore stadium tomorrow night.

Ready to "shoot the works" in this game, the Green Terrors believe they hold a slight edge over Maryland. The university has lost four straight games this season, while Western Maryland has defeated Mt. St. Mary's and played a scoreless tie with Bucknell.

Captain Mac McPike, All-Maryland fullback, will lead the Terrors into the fray. The probably Western Maryland lineup will be:

Impierato and Guegsky, ends; Thomas and Par, tackles; Baker and Pirie, guards; Phillips, center; Bills, quarterback; Kaplan, left halfback; Knepp, right halfback and McPike, fullback.

Aircorps Go Ahead In Kelly Pin Loop

In other matches, the Commercialists bested the Kant Slips 2-1 and the Kellys turned back the Stars 2-1.

Sports Editor Is Sued by Yankees For $2,500,000

Ten Players Involved in Suit; Gehrig Sues for $1,000,000

NEW YORK, Oct. 24 (AP)—Formal papers were filed in supreme court today in a $2,500,000 civil libel suit by 10 New York American League baseball players against sports editor Jimmy Powers and the News Syndicate Inc.

Joined in the action based on an article and cartoon which appeared in the Sunday News on Aug. 18, were pitchers Lefty Gomez, John Murphy, Monte Pearson, Athel Duffield, Oral Hildebrand, Charles Ruffing and Steve Sundra, second baseman Joe Gordon, catcher Bill Dickey and third baseman Red Rolfe.

Attorney Samuel L. Sargent, counsel for the ball players, revealed the filing of the suit when he filed a notice of a motion for a preference on the court's trial calendar, to be argued Nov. 4.

He said the suits were filed in September, and that a separate $1,000,000 action by Lou Gehrig was based on the same article.

The suit charged that Powers' article contained libelous statements made "in an attempt to explain the reason for a slump in the team's playing."

Blue Ridge To Meet Tough Millersville Teachers

NEW WINDSOR, Md., Oct. 24 (AP)—The Blue Ridge College Vultures will play their first home football game of the season here Saturday, meeting the undefeated Millersville State Teachers College eleven of Millersville, Pa.

Two Blue Ridge regulars, Skomrocha, a halfback who specializes in punting, and Pizzo, a center, are on the injury list, but probably will be in the starting lineup Saturday.

Blue Ridge has won only one of its four games, defeating Potomac State 12 to 2, but none of its losses has been by a big margin.

Millersville has won four straight, running up 87 points to 12 for the opposition.

Fans Look to Harmon-Reagan Battle

Grid Greets To Meet in Penn Michigan Game

Harmon Is Country's Leading Ground Gainer with Reagan Near

By GAIL FOWLER

SEATTLE, Oct. 24 (AP)—The Tom Harmon vs. Francis Xavier Reagan aspects of Saturday's Michigan-Pennsylvania battle are reflected in figures released by the American Football Association Bureau.

Harmon, the Michigan ghost, took over the nation's leadership in total offense—net yards gained rushing and passing—after being second last week.

Reagan, while playing in three games to Harmon's four, didn't crash the top ten in total offense on the top five in rushing, but his average gain per game—best basis of comparison—puts him right up there with the hard-running Tommy in both departments.

In total offense Harmon has made 435 yards rushing and 197 through the air for a 632 total net gain, the classification under which the bureau ranks the gridder. Reagan's 468 yard total for three games ranks him sixteenth. However, in average gain per game, Harmon figures at 107.75, Reagan boasts 119.33.

This week's leaders:

Total offense—after Harmon comes Al Chesquiere, Detroit, and Johnny Knolia, Creighton, tied with 606 yards each; Jack Jacobs, Oklahoma A. & M., third last week, 582; Paul Christian, Missouri, first last week, 571; Marion Pugh, Texas A. & M., 544; Tony Galovich, Wake Forest, 543; and Merle Hapes, Mississippi, 532.

Forward passing offense—Dave Allerdice, Princeton, 39 completions, (unofficial) 21 of them last week against Penn; Chrisman, Missouri, 30 completions; Jacobs, Oklahoma, and Bill Sewell, Washington State, 28 each; Pugh, Texas A. & M., 26.

Pass receivers—Jack Jennings, Oklahoma, caught 13 passes; Humbert, Richmond; White and Nick Giano, Virginia; and Phil Roach, Texas Christian, 12 each.

The Test of the Titans

Chicago — Saturday, on many bitter fields, will be the test of the Titans—the struggle of the unbeaten to keep their place along the front line.

Either Michigan or Pennsylvania must leave the happy road and the radiant pasture to look for the jewel in the toad's head of defeat. Cornell must get by a powerful Ohio State charge, looking for revenge. Unbeaten Stanford has Southern California trying to bar the highway as unbeaten Columbia steps out against Syracuse.

Most of the other unbeaten teams look almost as safe as a conceded putt, the only easy shot in golf. This list includes Fordham, Notre Dame, Tennessee, Texas A. & M., Minnesota, Navy, Georgetown, Boston College, Mississippi State, and possibly, but not surely, Texas meeting Rice.

The great majority of the united and the unbeaten should take the glory road in a common canter, under wraps. The one exception is Northwestern, with Bo McMillin's Indiana Hoosiers just starting to get hot.

But the volcano belt, the cyclone country, the volcanic centers belong to Michigan, Pennsylvania and Cornell in their earnest desire to lose another week in Spotless Towns, the home of dreams.

The Roundup

Michigan-Pennsylvania at Ann Arbor—The Maize of the West and the Ivy of the East in what might be the most spectacular game of the year—bringing together not only two of the country's finest teams, but also two of the country's greatest backs in Harmon and Reagan. Last fall Harmon and Michigan won, 19 to 17. Penn is far better this fall. Michigan in the Big Ten is rated on a par with Minnesota. It trail with the Pennsylvania line and the Pennsylvania backfield in the general sweep of the Red and Blue over the Blue and Maize, Pennsylvania.

Cornell-Ohio State at Ithaca—Ohio State, despite two close defeats, is one of the nation's better teams. The Scarlet Scourge has man power to throw away. Ohio State is coming to Ithaca for its main, desperate charge. But Cornell is faster and smarter, as fine a football machine as you will look upon through many autumn moons. The pick is Cornell.

Fordham-St. Mary's at New York—Fordham has one of the country's strongest teams. The Ram has a fine chance to remain among the unbeaten with a fine backfield and a strong line. Fordham.

Navy-Yale at New Haven—Unbeaten Navy by a fair margin. Coach Swede Larson can get a good night's sleep, and then wake up thinking about Pennsylvania a week away. Navy.

Notre Dame-Illinois at Champaign—Even Bob Zuppke can't pull enough rabbits out of his hat to handle this one. Not even if the rabbits are tigers. This is what you might call a considerable Notre Dame team.

Stanford-Southern California at Palo Alto—Close to a toss-up but we'll string with the unbeaten home team, Stanford.

Columbia-Syracuse at New York—Columbia so far has shown a better team than Syracuse has sent to the field. Columbia.

Tennessee-Florida at Knoxville—The Florida winter climate is usual-and Mississippi State over N. C. State. Also Oklahoma over Iowa State, and Georgia Tech has too much for Auburn in another top game, that also belongs toanderst. Here to Williams and Anherst. Also Virginia. I'll take Duke over Wake Forest, and you can add Washington State over Oregon. Villanova and Detroit are close to a standoff—in a game of action give me Villanova. Duquesne has the call over an improving Manhattan team.

Halas Convinced "Perfect" Team Is Impossible

Sutherland Referred to Chicago Bears as Best He's Ever Seen

CHICAGO, Oct. 24 (AP)—George Halas, dynamic owner-coach of the Chicago Bears, is convinced there never will be a "perfect" football team, but he does believe his current contenders for the National League title may become the greatest club he's coached in 21 years of producing professional winners.

Halas, with 31 players, left today for New York, where the Bears will meet the New York Giants at the Polo Grounds Sunday. Before boarding the train he paused to comment on a remark made by Jack Sutherland, coach of the Brooklyn Dodgers, after the Dodgers had been defeated last Sunday by the Bears.

"Sutherland's reference to our club as the greatest collection of football players he'd ever seen on one team is a real compliment," Halas said, "especially when it comes from such a great coach. Right now, however, I don't think we rate such bouquets. But we may before the season is over."

"The Bears now are only 70 percent efficient. I think they have a chance to put the 100 percent mark. If they do it will be the greatest team I've ever coached, better even than the 1934 club which won 13 straight games and then lost the playoff to the New York Giants. With Red Grange, Bronko Nagurski, Jack Manders and Carl Brumbaugh in the backfield, that was the best Bear team I've ever had."

The Bears, leaders of the league's western division with three wins and one loss, (they were upset by the Chicago Cardinals in their second game) have several young players on whom Halas is "high." He thinks Harry Clark, former West Virginia star, will become a great runner.

Wildcat Gridders Will Open Season

The Cunningham Wildcats will open their football season Saturday by opposing the St. Mary's Sixth Grade outfit. Jack Reed will captain the Wildcats while Daniel Catonece will lead the St. Mary's crew.

Pass Defense Stressed As Navy Holds Light Workout for Yale

ANNAPOLIS, Md., Oct. 24 (AP)—Pass defense was stressed today in Navy's "skelton" workout for Saturday's game with the Yale Bulldogs, a foe the Middies have never conquered.

Bill Busik, Navy's star left half-back, is expected to see action Saturday although he has been out of practice this week with a knee injury, sustained against Drake university.

Wes Goebert has filed in for Busik and may start against the Eli. The other backs will be Johnny Harrell, quarterback; Cliff Lenz, right half and Alan Cameron, full-back.

The Middle squad of forty leaves here tonight, arriving at New Haven 9 a. m. tomorrow. A two-hour work-out in the Yale Bowl is scheduled tomorrow afternoon.

Maryland Is Underdog In Game with Terrors

COLLEGE PARK, Md., Oct. 24 (AP)—In the role of underdogs for the first time in four years in this contest, University of Maryland gridgers opened today in their preparations to meet Western Maryland in the Baltimore stadium tomorrow night.

After a week's hard work on pass defense and on smothering out their own attack, the Terrapins were pronounced ready but still below par physically.

Several players are nursing minor but retarding injuries, and coaches were dissatisfied with the speed in some spots, particularly in pass covering.

The Maryland Jayvees will play the Penn Jayvees here tomorrow at 4 p. m. and the Freshman squad will go to Lexington, Va., to play the Washington and Lee freshmen.

Shrine Gun Club Has Successful Trap Shoot

The Cumberland Shrine Gun Club held a highly successful trap-shoot, yesterday afternoon, at the All Ghan Country Club with perfect weather and new traps adding to the meet.

Each event saw four to six perfect scores being made by the nineteen shooters participating.

Epsy Reichert and Phil Morgan, of Bedford, Pa., won three and two hams respectively. Dr. H. C. Diehl, of Frostburg, won two hams and his father, F. C. Diehl, won one ham. W. H. Browning, of Oakland, won one ham and Tony Francis, Bill Powell and Johnny Lighter, of this city, won one each.

In the erd shoot F. C. Diehl, of Frostburg, won an eighteen-pound ham and Bill Powell won a fourteen-pounder.

One event in skeet and doubles were won by J. C. Powell with 23 of 24 hits in skeet and 21 out of 12 pairs of doubles.

In Memoriam

In loving memory of Woodrow W. Noll, who died one year ago today, October 25th, 1939.

Sad and sudden was the call,
Of one so dearly loved by all;
A loving wife, a shock to us,
It was to part with one so dear.

We often sit and think of you,
And speak of how you died,
To think you could not say goodbye
Before you closed your eyes.

Oh, God, grant you eternal rest,
Safely mixed with FATHER, MOTHER, WIFE AND FAMILY.

Clifford's Fate Rests in Hands Of Jury Here

Locked up Last Night after Deliberating Six-and-a-Half Hours

The fate of John H. Clifford, former Morgantown farm boy who shot and killed Kermit Bailey the night of May 13, today was still being deliberated by twelve circuit court jurors.

The jury retired yesterday at 5 p. m. and was locked up last night at 11:30 o'clock after deliberating for six hours and a-half. The jurors will be closeted again this morning at 8:30 a. m.

The jury received the case yesterday afternoon after a day punctuated by clashes between opposing counsel. The nervous tension gradually increased as the state demanded a verdict of first degree murder claiming that Clifford shot Bailey in cold blood. The defense demanded an acquittal.

Attorneys Cut Loose

After watching witnesses in the case conduct themselves with restraint for the better part of two days, a packed gallery got what it was waiting for late yesterday when the lawyers took over for final argument and cut loose. The jury retired with quotations from Shakespeare, the Bible, the Ten Commandments, Daniel Webster and a Huxter opinion ringing in their ears.

State Witnesses Scored

Elmer B. Gower, defense attorney, pointed out Mrs. Beatrice Clifford, the defendant's wife, as a "lying Jezebel" who "already has been responsible for the death of one man and now wants to hang another." Spectators watched with open mouths as Gower lashed out at the state's witness.

At one point Mrs. Clifford sharply contradicted him from the counsel table. At another point Mrs. Clifford's mother, Mrs. Louisa Woods, reached for a heavy law volume, an angry expression on her face.

At another time several spectators dabbed at their eyes with handkerchiefs as Gower continued throwing things around, getting down on one knee, calling on the Deity and telling the jurors that "thousands of home-loving men are praying you will hear their prayers."

Blood-stained Clothing

A short time before, State Attorney Morgan C. Harris had dragged out the bloody garments worn by Bailey the night he was shot, and hung them out like "washday" on the jury box rail Mrs. Clifford, who was on the stand at the time, broke down and wept so affected was she at seeing the clothing of the man whose head she held in her lap as he lay dying. Clifford stared at the dead man's clothing as he twisted a yellow pencil in his nervous fingers.

A short time before that, Gower had sent Officer Walter P. Crabtree to the stand. The officer related that Mrs. Clifford, informed Bailey was dead the night of May 13 at the hospital, slumped against the wall, cried, "I wish it had been Clifford instead of him."

Earlier in the day, John E. Hoffman had testified that he was in Riverside park the night of the shooting, saw the participants and heard them talking in loud tones. He said he saw Bailey suddenly straighten up and reach for his hip pocket before Clifford emptied the contents of his revolver into the Ridgeley man's body.

Prior to May 13 Hoffman quoted Clifford as saying "I think I deserve a 50-50 chance" in explaining why he wanted a revolver.

Asked why he went to the park the night of the shooting by the state's attorney, Hoffman said "Johnny needed some witnesses" and kept repeating "he's my friend" in answer to vigorous questioning.

Defense Objects

Defense attorneys were on their feet objecting as Harris shouted, "you were inciting this murder, weren't you? You were urging him on, weren't you? You tried to get him a gun. You knew this murder was coming off and you wanted a grandstand seat, even took your girl along?"

Despite the fact an affirmative answer to these questions would have been self-incriminating, the court allowed the witness to answer. Hoffman denied the state's charges. (Continued on Page Twelve)

Dr. E. C. Powers Will Preach Here Sunday Morning

Centre Street Methodist Church To Present Joash Day

Dr. Edgar C. Powers, D. D., of Baltimore, one of the prominent ministers of the Methodist church and well known in Masonic circles, will be the principal speaker at the Joash day service at Centre street Methodist church here Sunday morning.

The church is being decorated with forest foliage, flowers and fruit. The choir under the direction of Jack Platt will participate in both the morning and evening services. The musical program will include a tenor solo by Benjamin McCracken at the morning service and a soprano solo by Miss Elizabeth Hunter, a violin solo by Miss Ruth Dicken and a vocal solo by Jack Platt at the evening service.

Follies Will Be Presented Tonight

Junior Volunteer's Show Is Expected To Draw a Large Crowd

The Junior Volunteer Service Corps will present the "Follies" at the Strand theater tonight, under the direction of Larry Doyle of New York.

A cast of more than 100 persons has been costumed and the scenery and properties are at the theater. Final dress rehearsals for parts of the show were held last night and others will be held this afternoon.

The show is divided into two acts, with twenty-nine scenes, a dozen or more being on the spectacular order. The "radium scene" is reported to have cost $600 to stage.

A feature of the show will be a brief style revue featuring clothes from Martin's, which will open the second half of the entertainment.

Proceeds from a souvenir program will swell the total that is to be given by the Volunteers to the Allegheny County League for Crippled Children, the Associated Charities and the Keating Memorial Day Nursery.

The cabaret tonight at the Elks club following the presentation of the Follies will be open to the public. It was announced last night that the affair is to be held in the club ballroom, is scheduled to get underway about 11 p. m. It will be featured by two floor shows—one at midnight, the other at 1 a. m.

The midnight show will be under the direction of John Moyer and will be headlined by vocal selections by Miss Virginia Ketter, song stylist, and a special presentation of "La Coma," a sensational dance routine.

Music for dancing will be by Marty Flynn and his "Society Ramblers."

Reservations have already been made for 150. They may be obtained through Mrs. Howard L. Tolson.

Kiwanis Speaker Urges Return To Spiritual Values

David N. Sutton Declares That Is Solution for Today's Problems

A "return to spiritual values" was urged as the solution to today's problems by David Nelson Sutton, of West Point, Va., at the weekly luncheon-meeting of the Kiwanis club at the Fort Cumberland hotel yesterday.

Mr. Sutton, governor of the Capital district of Kiwanis International, told the club that the "obstacles that threaten us will be overcome, not by political manipulation," but by "unselfish, personal participation" in public affairs by men with an awareness of the importance of "spiritual values."

The "ends for which we live" were not kept pace with the "means by which we live," the speaker went on, declaring that materially, we have advanced phenomenally but spiritually very little.

In this connection, Sutton quoted Thoreau's statement about the development of "improved means to an unimproved end." Another quotation cited by the speaker was that of Robert Milligan, the eminent scientist, to the effect that he considered "a belief in the reality of moral and spiritual values" of paramount importance—far above belief in scientific progress.

Discussing Kiwanis aims and objectives, Sutton took occasion to praise the Cumberland club for its "fine work" for underprivileged children in the establishment of its "Sunshine Camp" on Haystack mountain.

Development of New Markets for Coal Is Advocated by Johnson

Refers to Guffey Coal Act as Another New Deal Failure

Walter P. Johnson, Republican nominee for Representative to Congress from the Sixth Maryland district, in a public address here last night, declared that if elected he will work for development of new coal markets and new uses for coal which he declared would take care of the price situation in the coal fields of Allegheny county and provide regular work for miners.

"Before I leave Allegheny county, and return to Montgomery county for the last few days of the campaign, I want to speak about a situation in the upper part of the county which is disturbing," Johnson said.

"I refer to another New Deal failure—the Guffey Coal Act. The collapse of the so-called coal commission has resulted in the utmost confusion and disorder among the coal operators of Western Maryland."

New Markets Needed

"I don't have to be told that this substantial industry of yours in this county has been sick and ailing for a long time. It seems to me there is one way, and one way only to cure this ailment. We've got to find new markets for coal,

BURN LEGION HOME MORTGAGE—It took Fort Cumberland Post No. 13, American Legion, two years and eight months to clear a $12,000 mortgage on its present home and the event was celebrated last night at the annual membership dinner when Frederick A. Puderbaugh, president of the Legion Home, Inc., burned the mortgage in the presence of 300 guests.

Those pictured above in the mortgage-burning ceremony, reading left to right, are Robert C. Bowers, state historian and past commander; Harry Spiker, immediate past commander; Claude Deal, present commander; Frederick A. Puderbaugh, Leo C. Reichert, finance officer and Wesley H. Abrams, past department vice-commander and co-chairman of the membership committee for the 1941 campaign.

Col. Henderson Speaks against The Third Term

Points Out Dangers of Granting Too Much Power to One Man

Declaring that "we have already vested in President Roosevelt power and authority such as never before has been vested in a president," Col. George C. Henderson, in a public address here last night, urged the defeat of Roosevelt saying "our country existed before Roosevelt; do we want to admit it cannot continue after he is dead?"

The former chairman of the Allegheny County Republican State Central Committee, spoke against the third term movement.

"We are now told that our president is the indispensable man who must be kept in office at all costs, and there are countries where there is the doctrine of the 'indispensable man,'" Henderson said.

Dictators Indispensable

Hitler is "indispensable," to Nazi Germany, Mussolini to Fascist Italy and Stalin to Communist Russia—at least it would be very unsafe for anyone in any of those countries to say that they are not, Henderson declared.

"In each of these nations one man has become all-important, all-powerful and has declared himself to be indispensable. And in those countries freedom, as we know it, no longer exists."

"It is insisted that because of the dangerous situation in which we find ourselves we must keep in office President Roosevelt."

"Great Britain had to face a similar situation in the past spring. And when it was found that Norway was lost because an inadequately equipped army could not oppose one that was properly prepared, there was no longer any hesitation."

"In spite of the old adage about not changing horses in the middle of the stream, Chamberlain had to give way to Churchill. And Great Britain is better off today because she did change horses in the very front of battle."

Power Cause of Lust

"Why is the world in its present condition, why has country after country been trodden under the heel of the conqueror; why is it that even in victorious Germany freedom has ceased to exist?"

The answer is not complex, Henderson asserted, "from power lust."

Johnson Pleased With Hospitality In This County

Tells Young Republicans Here He Won't Let Them Down

It took Walter Johnson only five minutes last night to tell the enthusiastic members of the Sixth District Republican Club that he will do his level best for the people of Allegheny county if he is elected to the House of Representatives.

"By the same token, if Franklin D. Roosevelt can tip Pennsylvania's scales in his favor in the closing days of his campaign, he will be the first third-term president in the history of the nation."

In short, to summarize at the beginning, the Roosevelt-Willkie race is currently as close as that, and the Keystone state appears to be the key state in the whole situation.

At any rate, that's what Pathfinder poll shows on the basis of country-wide cross-sectional figures covering public opinion up to and including October 15.

"Should Pennsylvania cast its thirty-six electoral votes for the Republican nominee—and our latest ballot returns indicate that she will—the final count in the electoral college would give Wendell Willkie, 300; Franklin Roosevelt, 231."

"On the other hand should Pennsylvania shift the other way, the score would be Roosevelt 267, Wendell Willkie 254."

"xxxActually, neither side can be certain of victory at this time. A week from now, if the trend in his favor remains, Willkie may be farther ahead than ever; conversely, if he slips back, the tide of public opinion may turn to support a third term."

"In the present race, overnight changes in sentiment are entirely possible—probably not sweeping enough, but changes just large enough to shift percentages decisively."

"As for our figures this week, they are so representative and have been checked so carefully that if there is any scientific basis for polls at all, then this particular one gives the current picture in unvarnished form—completely free of bias."

"Hurja in his tabulation of states, gives Roosevelt all the border states, Maryland, Kentucky, Missouri, Oklahoma, Tennessee and West Virginia. He gives the president all the "Solid South" states and six Mountain states, Arizona, Idaho, Montana, Nevada, New Mexico, and Utah.

The other states he gives Roosevelt are California, Washington and Delaware.

Habeas Corpus Writ Is Sought on Behalf Of Wilbur E. Fogle

A writ of habeas corpus was filed in circuit court yesterday by John W. Fogle on behalf of Wilbur E. Fogle, a minor.

The petition states the youth is held unlawfully in the Maryland Training School for Boys and requests that James A. Pratt, the school superintendent, produce the boy in court so the facts can be ascertained.

Associate Judge William A. Huster passed an order for hearing in the case on November 8, at 1:30 p. m.

The formal program will be followed by informal entertainment, including dancing, Kelley said.

Fitzgerald Says Hitler Tried To Scare America

Tells Legionnaires No Group of Foreign Powers Can Do That

Declaring that Hitler forced Japan into the three-power pact for the purpose of "scaring" the United States fleet in the Pacific ocean, James Blaine Fitzgerald, former Maryland Department commander of the American Legion, speaking last night on "National Defense" at the annual membership dinner of Fort Cumberland Post No. 13, assured an audience of 300 World War veterans that no country or group of foreign powers can "scare" Uncle Sam.

"We do not want war," said Fitzgerald, "but Hitler has forced us to take steps to protect ourselves and before long the United States flag will not only protect the Atlantic but also the Pacific ocean."

"Man for man and ship for ship the United States has the best navy in the world and when the present defense program is completed no nation or any combination of nations will dare attack us," declared the former state commander.

Praises Conscription

Fitzgerald assailed those who criticized the conscription of America's young manhood in peace time and in doing so hearkened back to the World War to show how unpreparedness had resulted in the loss of life for many a young American on the battlefields of Europe.

He also pointed out that in 1919 the American Legion had recommended universal military obligation and for twenty-one years the Legion's plea was ignored until September 1939 when the consciousness of the American people was aroused by the crushing of small European nations by Hitler, whom he termed a maniacal paperhanger.

Fitzgerald said that Congress is not to blame for the failure of the Legion's program to be adopted but that the blame rests on the American people themselves—those who argued that legislation for a preparedness program was unwise because it would have been too much of a burden for the taxpayer of this country. However, the consciousness of the American people was aroused by the crushing of European countries a year ago and immediately those who had fought the legislation for twenty-one years began crying "We're Not Prepared."

The speaker told of the crushing of Czechoslovakia and Poland, the intimidation of the low countries, the conquering of Denmark and the conquering and almost crushing of France, America's ally of 1917-18. He told of Hitler forming a pact with Italy and Japan for the purpose of intimidating every small nation in continental Europe.

"He (Hitler) believes he can dominate the world," shouted Fitzgerald. "He is the head of these pacts and he alone manipulates these pacts and as supreme head. Once he controls and dominates Europe he will turn his eyes toward us."

Program of Destruction

"The program of the totalitarian dictators is one of the destruction of God and Country. That program does not coincide with the views of the American Legion, of over one million members who have solemnly pledged their association for God and for Country."

"There is philosophy in those who follow the totalitarian form of government. There must be destruction of God before the conquering of a country. The American Legion believes the Supreme Being is God but the totalitarian countries believe the Supreme Being is Hitler."

Hascall Escapes Injury as Train Strikes His Car

Watchman at Union Street Crossing Had Given "All Clear" Signal

A large crowd quickly gathered last night at 8:45 o'clock at the Union street B. & O. crossing when the 1940 Oldsmobile club coupe driven by Robert C. Hascall, 549 Greene street, was struck by freight engine No. 6108.

Hascall, telegraph editor of the Cumberland News, escaped injury.

According to Hascall and several witnesses, he stopped his car on the upper side of the crossing to allow a Diesel train to pass. Then he waited until shifter train No. 668 taxied into position alongside the watchman's station.

Then the watchman, George B. Carpentri, 306 Waverly terrace, gave him the "all clear" signal, he said. His car was struck on track 4 and was pushed to track 3, smashing the left side of the car badly.

Carpentri exonerated Hascall of the blame and said he didn't see or hear No. 6108 pull up alongside of No. 668. The shifter obstructed his view, he said.

Officer Thomas T. Griffin and Dorsey E. Nicols, B. & O. policemen, were on hand at the crossing to direct motor and pedestrian traffic. Train service on track No. 3 was delayed for nearly an hour.

Julius E. Schindler was attorney for Mrs. Northcraft.

Dorsey Is Held For Violation Of Ordinance

Will Be Given Hearing in Police Court This Morning

John Dorsey, 36, colored, of 450 Pine avenue, who was arrested Sunday on charges of violating two city ordinances, was apprehended again yesterday morning on a charge of breaking another ordinance.

Dorsey, proprietor of a bar in the basement of his home, is now accused of violating City Ordinance 1404, Section H, which requires any public place selling intoxicants to be exposed to the view from outside.

Police said the windows of his basement bar were blacked out, making the place hidden from officers patrolling the street.

Following his arrest on a warrant obtained by Lieut. James E. Van Dorsey was released into the custody of his attorney, Edward J. Ryan. He is scheduled to be given a hearing today at 9 a. m. in police court.

Officers J. H. Newhouse, F. O. Daum, B. F. Hotchkiss and D. J. Raley, who assisted Lieut. Van in a raid on Dorsey's basement early Sunday morning, were named as witnesses in the warrant.

Tuesday, Dorsey was fined $20 in police court for selling sandwiches without a city restaurant license. He was acquitted of selling beer after midnight when police failed to produce witnesses to back the charge.
